WEST END WOULD HAVE GYMNASIUM

West Enders Want to Punch Bag, Near Home.

Athletic Club May be Organized by Young Men.

Several young men employed in the West end and others whose work is up town, but who live in the western part of the city, are talking of organizing an athletic club for the purpose of maintaining a gymnasium where the members can strengthen their muscles. Clubs of this kind have flourished in the West end in the past, but during the last two or three years interest in them has slumbered.

The advent of several new industries in the West end makes the need of such a place greater than before, and offers a larger number of men to select members from.

It is proposed to find some empty store building or other suitable apartment, somewhere between Garfield avenue and the area docked with up with "horses," parallel bars, weights, dumbbells, foils, boxing gloves, wrestling mats and all the rest of gymnasium equipment.

A meeting will probably be held next week to which all those interested are invited. It will likely be held at the Esmond hotel or in one of the stores along the street.

West End Shortfalls.

Mrs. Oscar Nelson and children of Minneapolis are the guests of Mrs. Nelson's sister, Mrs. Chert Solberg, West Third street.

Several West end horse-lovers will make up a party to take in the state fair next week. They own fast steeds themselves, and will go to Hamline primarily to see the races.

Graders have been working on the Wisconsin Central's right of way between Twenty-second and Thirty-second avenues west during the past few days. Hains have caused the embankments to settle in some places, so that it made the roadbed too uneven, even for the little dump trucks.

Members of the Elks lodge are planning a picnic and hop for next week. The mission program will be given Sunday evening at the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church. The service will be in charge of the pastor, Rev. H. K. Madsen.

Frank Perry of Two Harbors is a guest at the Esmond.

The young son of Leo Cassinello, 726 Garfield avenue, had a fall yesterday, which well-nigh cost him his eye. He ran a splinter in his cheek along the side of his eye. The splinter was removed by a physician.

Fred Johnson left yesterday for St. Paul, where he will remain for a week.

Mrs. A. O. Anderson entertained informally yesterday afternoon at her home, 2412 West Sixth street.

The funeral of Mrs. Alma Peterson, who died at St. Paul, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Lutheran church on the corner of Third and Hennepin streets.

George Nelson, who lives with his parents at 2225 West Third street, suffered a bad fall while playing on the point of rocks yesterday. He was able to go home in a street car, however.

majority of the men present are opposed to the nomination of Governor Hughes.

Visit With President. No formal statement has been made of the plans for a pilgrimage of the heads of the Republican congressional committee to Oyster Bay. It is understood here, however, that the former chairman of the committee, Representative McKim of Illinois, chairman at the present time, Representative Loudenslager, secretary of the committee and a number of others will be present. Among matters which will be discussed are the campaign in operation with the national committee, and the plans being made for conducting stirring campaigns in a number of districts in southern states, which is determined the political complexion of the house of representatives shall not be changed by the coming elections if his influence and advice can prevent it.

The meeting of Chairman Hitchcock with the eastern members of the executive committee of the Republican national committee is the first formal conference held since its organization.

Many routine matters of importance are being considered. Later in the day the West Virginia controversy, over the fact that two factions of the Republican party have each nominated a candidate for governor, and that there are two sets of presidential electors in the field, will be taken up by a sub-committee of three members.

Chairman Mack of the Democratic national committee, is spending much of his time in conferring with members of his advisory committee, but is devoting attention also to the New York situation. He is seeking means of harmonizing the Murphy-McCarran situation and to that end is conferring with colleagues on the national committee.

lamentation yesterday, he" sounded the attitude of various leaders in the legislature and was given assurances that if he called a special session, they would stand by him and provide whatever assistance he required to enforce the laws at Atlantic City. He was assured that despite the revolt of Atlantic City the legislature would authorize him to enforce the law there even to the necessity of patrolling the resort with troops and placing it under martial law. Thereupon the proclamation was issued with the threat to call a special session.

It is fully believed here that on next Sunday Atlantic City will continue its defiance of the governor and will be "wide open," as in the past. Advice have reached the governor already that such would be the case, and there can be no doubt that the call for the special session of the legislature will follow. If issued, the call will probably appear on Tuesday.

Grand Jury Refuses to Act. Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 28.—The extraordinary situation that has developed as a result of Governor Fort's proclamation, in which he threatened to close the state militia to enforce the Sunday liquor laws here, and the action of the Atlantic City council in deliberately ignoring the instructions of the court by refusing to return indictments against persons accused of violating the excise laws, continued to be almost the sole topic of conversation today.

That Governor Fort will be compelled to utilize his authority in calling out the state militia is hardly probable since the summer season is nearing an end and it is more than likely that at least the larger and more prominent places will refuse to sell liquor on the coming Sabbath. The situation is a serious one from the standpoint of the business of the city, and those who like to see things go and like to be in the "go."

Will Injure the City. Whatever may be the outcome of the conflict between the powers on the question of gambling and liquor selling, many of the large property holders and those who have seen the city of the great resort from a quiet little hamlet to the best known summer resort on the Atlantic coast, are of the opinion that the higher criticisms that are being directed against the place as a whole will work an injury to it that will long be felt.

Nobody denies that liquor is sold on Sunday. On this point Assistant Attorney General Gaskill in commenting on the defiant attitude of the grand jurors, says:

"Governor Fort has decided that law breaking in this city must cease, and he will find means to carry out his decision. He will not allow anyone to defy the law of the state. The present stand of the resort means not only the opening of the saloons on Sunday, but open defiance that requires a fight to discover whether the law of the state can be ignored with impunity."

That there is much politics in the whole situation is apparent to every body familiar with conditions in the state and particularly in Atlantic county and developments will be watched with intense interest.

NEW MOTOR BOAT HERE

"Dingle Doman" is Name of Dick Schell's New Craft.

Pioneer Among Speedy Boat Owners Gets Fever Again.

Richard Schell couldn't stand it any longer.

He was down at the Boat club several evenings last week watching the speedy motor boats whizz by, and got homesick.

Mr. Schell for some time owned the North Butte, who was then the fastest hereabouts. He hasn't felt easy, or settled since he gave up possession.

Just after the curious spell of last week, he began shifting around looking for a boat that would clean up the Duluth harbor.

He arrived in the city Friday with a boat he calls the Dingle Doman. She is built along the lines of the North Butte, and is painted the same color. She has a 60-horse power engine, and the way she tears through the water is by her side.

Mr. Schell wants to put her along some of the regatta races. It has been under the auspices of the Boat club next Wednesday.

Also, Frank Wade, Guy Warren and Julius H. Barnes will have a new rival for motor boat supremacy.

EXCITING RACES SATURDAY. Yacht Club Will Pull Off Race for Consolation Prize.

What promises to be good sport for the members of the local yacht club will be the series of three races, for the consolation prize, the first of which will be run off tomorrow afternoon.

The races are open to all 25-foot boats that have not captured a prize so far this season, and there are a number of them. The prize is a silver loving cup, and will be awarded to the winner.

Weather permitting the other races will be held on the next two Saturdays so that the affair can be finally settled.

Elmer Whyte will sail the Merry Widow, Fred McGuffee the Freckles, A. H. Krueger the Banshee, Kennedy and Pierce the Voyager, and Frank and Julius H. Barnes the Winner.

Some of the boats entered are very fast, and will be a close race. From winning one of the other prizes by misfortune.

SENIOR CREW OUT. Boat Club Oarsmen Plan to Do Some Fall Rowing.

A senior eight-oared crew was on the water last evening.

The old-time oarsmen in the Duluth Boat club are evidently determined to carry out their intention of getting in shape for next year, and will row every Monday and Thursday.

It is likely that a junior crew will be reorganized and row two or three events this season.

The senior crew was coached by B. M. Peterson from J. B. Maloney's motor boat, the North Butte. It will not leave Duluth until the next day in any way. The juniors will be coached by Dr. F. L. Lyman.

COMPTROLLER GIVES ADVICE

City Comptroller McCormick has written a friendly letter of advice to D. E. Mowry, a youthful University of Wisconsin freshman who was responsible for certain false statements relative to Duluth's methods of keeping books which appear in the current issue of The City Hall, official publication of the League of American Municipalities.

The United States census bureau, department of commerce and labor, has recommended to other cities Duluth's system of bookkeeping as a model to follow. Other eminent authorities have had the same to say of the present system. Mr. McCormick dropped a polite note to young Mowry, apprising him of such an accolade.

In a "sassy" letter received in reply, the freshman acknowledged that the information he worked on was "several years old." With the usual wisdom of a youth fresh from high school, he tells Mr. McCormick that his was not a gentlemanly letter. A close perusal of the city comptroller's communication fails to reveal any grounds for such an accusation.

City Clerk Cheadle has taken the matter up with the magazine in question, but Mr. McCormick took it upon himself to write a second letter to the university boy, which concludes with the following well-meant advice:

"Being a man much older in years and experience than you are, I am very sure you will gratefully accept a few thoughts prompted by an interest in your future welfare and happiness."

In your search for information, make every effort to secure every known fact. Learn to economize your odd moments, and when you work, concentrate upon your studies all the powers of your intellect. May it be said of you that your knowledge does not lie undigested in your mind, but has been thoroughly assimilated so as to become a part of your mental constitution.

Ever remember that there is nothing so strong or safe in life as the simple truth.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT STOPS RUNAWAYS.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 28.—It was stated here that Kermit Roosevelt, second son of the president, stopped a runaway pair of horses yesterday afternoon after a wild chase on horseback along the shore road into Bayville, and probably saved the lives of Mrs. Frank Hilton of New York and her two small sons.

Kermit seized the horses' reins, while the animals were galloping at full speed, and brought them to a standstill. Mrs. Hilton and her two children were in the carriage. They were unhurt, but Mrs. Hilton was thrown out when the horses took fright, but was not injured.

IS GLAD TO BE ALIVE.

Narrow Escape of Iowa Man From Death by Lightning.

Corringtonville, Iowa, Aug. 28.—Peter Neison, a farmer three miles northeast of this town is glad he is alive. He was leading a horse into the barn the other evening just as a furious local storm broke. A bolt of lightning killed the animal. Mr. Neison was knocked to the barn floor, and his blood practically turned to water by the usual action of a strong current of electricity. The administration of a powerful heart stimulant and medicines to build up his blood have put him well on the road to recovery.

SETTLERS ON N. P. LANDS ARE IN A SORRY PLIGHT

Many Rulings of Land Office Leave Them All at Sea.

Railroad Has Forfeited All Its Rights, Says H. H. Hoyt.

The Northern Pacific road has no right to the remaining 20,000,000 acres of land not yet selected. I have fought the railroad for years. I probably know more about the case than even the railroad's attorneys. I have thought about it day and night, and I am saturated with it, but I have not time to write a $500,000,000 corporation.

"What we need is some man in congress who will take up the fight. He has got to make a study of the case so that he can explain the facts, and make intelligent replies to attacks upon his position. He has got to give time and energy to it and the country could save for itself those 20,000,000 acres of land which by every moral and legal right belong to the country."

Petitions, signed by the hundreds of settlers on Northern Pacific lands in Minnesota, will probably be presented to congress this winter, asking that they take some action toward definitely settling the question of the ownership of these lands, which have been in dispute for years.

The legal steps have been so numerous, and the departmental rulings so frequent and so much at variance with each other, that the settlers do not know where they stand, and even the local officials of the land office are at a loss to know just what steps to take.

Where are the settlers on so-called "Northern Pacific" lands in Northern Minnesota at?

There are probably 10,000 people in the northern part of the state who are affected by this question. They are men and women who have gone into the wilderness to make a home for themselves from the suburbs, but productive lands in the state, and even the best years of their lives having out a farm from the wilderness, and have put their little all into improvements on these lands.

For years the cloud of litigation has been hanging over them. Just when they thought it was swept away by the decision of the land office at Washington, comes a ruling from the land office allowing the road to go ahead and make other selections of land. Does it mean another twenty years through the courts? Will the settlers ultimately win and secure patents to their lands? Else or six different rulings have been handed down by the land office at Washington during the last two years and each decision is a new trial. The settlers are at a loss to know where they stand. They dare not go ahead and make improvements, fearing that they will ultimately lose their land to the railroad. They are in a sorry plight, and becoming desperate in many cases. They have no money for expensive litigation.

The Herald through information furnished in the pamphlet published by H. H. Hoyt, the Duluth attorney, who has fought the settlers' case for years through recent letters and telegrams received in the local land office, and from other sources, has prepared the following synopsis of the situation. Under the charter granted the Northern Pacific Railroad company it was given 12,800 acres per mile for its main line where it passed through a state to the eastern terminus of the road. In 1884 the eastern terminus of the road, by a resolution of the directors, was fixed at Montreal river, although less than one percent of the traffic went beyond Duluth. Duluth was the actual eastern terminus of the road, but the extension to Ashland gave the road just that much more land and also connection with the Wisconsin Central to Chicago. This action was upheld recently by the supreme court, and it gave the railroad the right to select a large tract of additional land in Northern Minnesota.

In this pamphlet entitled "The History of the Passing of The Northern Pacific Railway Company," Judge Hoyt says:

"The act of congress of July 2, 1891, thirty-four years have passed and still this grant has not been adjusted. The Northern Pacific Railroad company in 1896, under the pretended sale, purchased 28,420.25 acres of land that was included within the limits of this grant, more than 20,000,000 acres of which had not been patented, nor the selections approved by the secretary of the interior. It belongs to the United States and is now a part of the public domain. It is, however, claimed by the railroad company under its purchase, but it is not apparent what title the railroad company could acquire by the sale of these lands now owned by the government under executive order. This vast quantity of land has been withheld from settlement or sale for twenty-five years, excepting those years the hardens attending the ownership of property."

Since the foregoing was written by Judge Hoyt the land office rulings regarding the selection in Northern Minnesota have reversed themselves several times.

On March 2, 1907, the department cancelled certain of the company's selections known as lists numbers 14 and 15, under a decision which denied the company's motion for a review of the case.

On April 5, 1907, or only a month later, the register and receiver of the local land office were notified by letter to suspend action in view of the company's motion for a re-review of the case. This again closed the lands to settlement.

On April 14, 1908, the register and receiver of the Duluth office were notified that the land office had denied the company's motion for a re-review of the case, but gave the company the permission to transfer its bases for the selection cancelled March 2, 1907, any lands that would be available for second and indemnity selections which the company may have used in support of its indemnity selections and to replace such bases with the unavailable bases used in the former list.

The company was given sixty days in which to make the transfer, and during that time the local office was instructed to take no action toward disposing of the lands.

On June 22, of about fifteen days after the time limit had expired, the local office received instructions from the department at Washington, in a letter signed by V. P. Proulx, acting commissioner, that the time limit had expired, that the company had taken no action, and that the lands in controversy were open to entry.

A sudden change. Three days after this letter was written, and the day following its receipt, came a telegram ordering the local officials to suspend action on the letter, and allow the company to re-enter. There followed a letter written on July 24, which after reviewing the previous steps, read as follows:

"The company through its resident attorney, has requested that the department apply to certain of said selections, per list 14 and 15, and has also filed per Duluth list 34, a new list of selections embracing a number of the lands covered by said list 14."

"You are now advised that the cancellation made March 2 and 16, 1907, will stand as to the following described selections in list 14 for which the company has not assigned new bases thereunder, but that in view of the fact that all of the lands now described in the northwest quarter, section 32, township 55 north, range 19 west, have been re-selected and are pending under said list 34, none of these lands, with the exception of the said quarter, are restored to entry. List 14 comprising lands in thirty-eight sections, is given in the letter."

"As to certain other selections in list 14, office letter of June 22, 1908, vacating the suspension of cancellations of March 2 and March 16, 1907, is rescinded, and the company's claims thereto and to the tracts indicated above as selected in list 34, will be the subject of further consideration."

The last word from the department, therefore, is that the company's claims on the new selections of land, are still under consideration. Meanwhile the settlers on the lands are waiting—waiting as they have been for from two to ten years—and they feel that they are no nearer the final adjustment of their claims than they were at the beginning. Different conditions govern different settlers, according to the circumstances surrounding their claims. Some filed on one selection of the railroad lands, and some on another. The railroad has these settlers fighting individually. Their interests as a whole are in common, but each case has a slightly different aspect, owing to the many opinions and orders handed down by the land office. What the settlers want is to have congress step in and declare the right of the company to forfeit its right to select the remaining 20,000,000 acres of land, because it has not lived up to the provisions under which the grant was made. This is the claim of Judge Hoyt, and in his complaint to congress in detail the points wherein the company has failed.

DIES TRYING TO REFORM.

Chinese Officials Can't Survive Giving Up of Opium.

Pekin, Aug. 28.—Lu Pao-Chung, formerly president of the censorate, is the third metropolitan official of high rank who has died in an unsuccessful effort to break off the opium habit, in accordance with orders from the throne. By imperial decree the deceased's son was granted the funeral rights of a president of the censorate, and all his faults were ordered to be erased from the official records. His son, a second-class secretary in the ministry of agriculture, has been promoted as a mark of the imperial appreciation of Lu Pao-Chung's services to the state.

THIRST CAUSES MURDERS.

Great Distress Accompanies Water Famine in Italian Provinces.

Rome, Aug. 28.—Shortage of water in the Italian province of Apulia is creating considerable distress, and has caused two tragedies. Recently a woman who refused to give water to another woman was attacked and killed by the latter with a hammer. Near Bari a young man demanded water from a water carrier for his fiancée. The carrier refused, and the young man, snatching his pitcher from him, struck him on the head with it and killed him.

MISSIONARY'S WIFE PRAISES CUTICURA

Daughter's Head Encrusted with Dandruff—Feared she Would Lose her Hair—Many Treatments were Futile—Baby had Milk-Crust.

BOTH CHILDREN CURED BY FAMOUS REMEDIES

"For several years my husband was a missionary in the Southwest, and we were living on the edge of the desert at an elevation of nearly five thousand feet. Every one in that high and dry atmosphere has more or less trouble with dandruff and my daughter's scalp became so encrusted with it that I was alarmed for fear she would lose all her hair, which was very heavy. After spending between five and six dollars for various remedies, in desperation I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment. After rubbing the Cuticura Ointment thoroughly into the roots of the hair, I gently combed the crust of dandruff free from the scalp, and then gave her head a thorough shampoo with the Cuticura Soap. This left the scalp beautifully clean and free from dandruff, and after the hair was dry I again rubbed the Cuticura Ointment, this time sparingly, into the roots, and I am happy to say that the Cuticura Remedies were a complete success. My troubles with dandruff were over, although for a long time afterward I used the Cuticura Ointment as at first, after shampooing, which kept the scalp and roots of the hair moist. I have used successfully the Cuticura Remedies for so-called 'milk-crust' on baby's head, and have never found anything to equal them. You are at liberty to publish this letter, for I do sincerely believe that the Cuticura Remedies are a blessing to mankind."

Mrs. J. A. Darling, 310 Fifth St., Carthage, Ohio, Jan. 29, 1908.

Cuticura Ointment is one of the most successful curatives for torturing, itching humors of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing with it, preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed, when necessary, by a mild dose of Cuticura Resolvent (liquid or pills) is often sufficient to afford immediate relief of itching, burning and scaly humors, eczemas, irritations and inflammations, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all else fails.

FIND A BAND OF THIEVES

Police Capture One of Three After Fight in Darkness.

Men Were Carrying Away Sacks of Stolen Sugar.

In an encounter with a band of three sugar thieves at the foot of Seventh avenue last night, Sergeant Towse and Patrolman Connors managed to capture one of the men, after a desperate struggle. The other two escaped in the darkness.

The police were notified yesterday that several 100-pound sacks of sugar, evidently stolen from some dock or warehouse in the vicinity, were concealed at the foot of the avenue. The "plant" was discovered by accident. Patrolmen were immediately put on guard, and the sugar was watched during the day and evening until the thieves appeared.

Sergeant Towse and Patrolman Connors were concealed on a trading sloop which was towed during the afternoon close to the plant. About 9 o'clock in the evening, the officers heard voices coming towards them. There were three men in the party, and they stopped by the sugar. Drawing their revolvers, the officers rushed to the dock and found the men, each with a sack of sugar, about to start away. The thieves, surprised in their work, showed fight. Two tackled Patrolman Connors and held him down. The third man, who was armed with a knife, rushed to the sugar, and began to throw him from a bath. One of the men fighting the officer suddenly darted away in the darkness, and the individual left by Towse followed him. Connors held on to his man, who later was landed behind the bars at the city jail.

He gave his name as John Ensign of 19 Seventh avenue west. He is 31 years old and has a family. His wife visited him at the station. He denies having stolen the sugar, and claims that he was asked to go after it without knowing that it had been stolen. He also says he does not know the names of the two men who were with him.

It is believed one of the men implicated in the robbery is employed on the docks, which is thought to explain how the sugar was taken in the first place without discovery. There has been a good deal of thieving along the bay front recently, and the police are of the opinion that somewhere along the harbor there is some place where the stolen goods have been concealed in large quantities. A search will be made for this place.

OYSTERS TO BE HAD NOW

Season for the Bivalves Has Opened in Duluth.

Concord Grapes Are Offered Freely in Produce Market.

The season for the oyster has opened, despite the fact that it is still several days before the first of September. It is a popular idea that oysters are to be had only during the months which contain the letter 't' in their names. From now on until the end of April, Duluth will be able to order them raw, stewed or fried.

These first oysters of the season do not come from Baltimore, which is supposed to be the oyster metropolis. They were fished from the water on Long Island sound, but they are said to have the flavor all right.

Michigan is sending the Concord grapes which are coming now. Other states have them to offer, but Duluth commission merchants are looking to the Wolverine state for their supplies. Carlots of Concord are arriving daily and the grapes are selling at 30 cents a basket, wholesale.

California grapes are being received in fair quantities, and other Western states are sending considerable fruit. It is keeping the dealers on the move to supply the local market with what it needs, however.

"The entire country is demanding fruit and green stuff of all kinds, and it keeps us hustling to keep the market supplied all the time with what is needed," said a commission merchant today. "Everyone wants to buy the shippers' stuff, and they want it right away. It is the man who gets in first that gets the goods."

The local demand for fruits of all kinds continues good and the quality of the stuff is considered first-class. Dealers say prices are very reasonable.

Increased receipts have caused a slump in apple prices. Apples are selling at $2 a barrel now, whereas a week ago $2.50 was asked here for them.

Watermelons and cantaloupes are still prominent features of the market. Prices are about the same as they were a week ago.

Peaches are selling at $1.10 to $1.70 a crate.

Bartlett pears are $2.25 to $2.50 a box.

Sour fruits are steady. California lemons are selling at $4.75 to $5 a box and lemons are quoted at $1.50 a box. Grape fruit is $4.50 a case.

Cabbage are higher this week. They have gone from $1.75 to $2 a crate. Receipts have been lighter than they were, which is the reason for the stiffening of prices.

Duluth has about everything in the green vegetable line now. Green corn continues to be very popular and the first Hubbard squash are receiving the attention of the trade.

Home grown tomatoes are arriving daily and are selling at $1.75 to $2 a bushel. These tomatoes are as good as any the market has offered this season.

Jersey sweet potatoes are quoted at $1.75 to $2 a bushel.

Eggs have now a easier feeling during the week, prices going off a cent. Although eggs are cheaper, fowls are bringing higher prices than they were a week ago. Hens are quoted at 15 cents a pound, while for spring chickens the trade asks 20 cents a pound.

Creamery butter is 23 to 26 cents a pound and other grades are about unchanged.

Although the local market has not reflected it much, there is a stringency in the pork market. Hog prices are quoted at $10.50 a hundred, but the article at the killing centers because the farmers are not sending many hogs to market. They have plenty of them, ready for killing, but the agriculturists are waiting with their crops just now that they have no time to ship hogs. They will have plenty of time to do that when the harvest days are over.

Pork loins are 11 1/2 to 12 cents a pound. Other kinds of meat are selling at lower prices. Beef is easier and so is mutton.

Court-Martial Ordered.
Washington, Aug. 28.—A court-martial has been ordered by the president to meet in this city Sept. 8 for the trial, among others, of Frank A. Cook.

CERTIFICATE

Being a state official and authorized to administer oaths and certify documents, I hereby certify that correspondence laid before me this morning from an Eastern city, states as follows: "A. Dr. B. is an old practitioner in this city who has had Bright's Disease for years, is bed ridden, and is simply waiting his time. He has taken three bottles of Fulton's Renal Compound with more than the usual results. Wednesday of last week, a brother physician called to see him. The latter upon finding that he was better, asked what he was taking. Dr. B. replied, 'It is in the window.' The Dr.'s rejoinder was, 'And so you are taking that stuff, too, are you? I had a severe case of Diabetes in a patient who left this city and whom I expected to die. Yesterday I had a letter from him stating that he had taken Fulton's Compound and was well.'"

The following report is made by another prominent physician in the same city, using Fulton's Compound on an acute case of Bright's case is now on the second bottle with astonishing results.

Witness my hand and seal in evidence of the genuineness of this correspondence affixed at Oakland, Cal., this December 28th, 1907.
(Seal) T. C. LANDREGAN, Notary Public.

No matter whether you call it kidney trouble, Nephritis or Bright's Disease, it is a case of inflamed kidneys, and as the old-time kidney medicines are kidney excitants, it is clear why they are futile. Fulton's Renal Compound is the first successful Renal emollient thus reducing kidney inflammation which is the cause for the first time. Even the serious supposed incurable forms yield.

New Tailored Suits for Fall

Perfect tailoring in Women's Garments is more than ever essential this season. The plain tailored suits are, if anything, more popular than ever, and their chief attraction, their individuality, is derived solely from the beauty of the material used, and the perfection of the tailoring. Great care has been taken in the selection of our new Ladies' Fall Suits. The tailoring is uniformly perfect—materials have been carefully selected—and altogether, we have spared no pains in making this the most complete assortment we have ever shown.

The length and appearance of the new coats differ greatly—in length they are from 34 to 48 inches. Some are perfectly plain tailored, while others are bound with braids and satin bindings—and are trimmed with strappings and buttons. All are lined with silk or satin. Skirts are shown in both pleated and gored models—cut full—some with deep folds of self cloth, others with tailored strappings, and new pleated effects. Our showing is already a very extensive one, and every day adds to it. Prices range in easy stages from $17.50 to $75.00.

New Wash Fabrics

So many new Wash Fabrics have already arrived, beautiful in pattern and coloring, that it is difficult to select a few to particularize. However, we mention a few, suitable for present use—values which are out of the ordinary, even in the Glass Block Store.

FILING FEE RETURNED.

Secretary of State Interprets Law Differently From Ramsey Auditor.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though County Auditor Krahmer of Ramsey county refused to give a prospective candidate back his filing fee when he withdrew, and then charged him another fee when he decided to re-enter the lists, the state has refused to adopt such an arbitrary method, and returned to Mr. H. Hanson his filing fee after he had asked that his name be taken off the ballot. Mr. Hanson filed for the republican nomination for representative.

Secretary of State Schmalz says there is precedent for his action in returning the money. Had he not turned over to the state treasury legislative action would have been necessary to get back and the same applies to the county.

CHRISTENED WITH WATER.

Candidate Chafin Breaks Bottle of Adam's Ale at Launching.

Blomack, N. D., Aug. 28.—Eugene Chafin is the first candidate for president who ever broke a bottle of the purest water in the world over the bow of a Missouri river steamer. In place of a bottle of wine at a christening, Mr. Chafin, while here Wednesday, christened the steamer Des Moines, one of a new fleet of grain boats to ply on the river from this harbor. He presided at hundreds of steamer would be on the first river christening. Governor Burke and other officials attended the christening.

The prohibition candidate was met at the train by the mayor and made a brief speech from the station platform. He was then taken to the capitol and called upon by the governor. Last evening Mr. Chafin addressed an immense crowd in an open square. On his trip from Fargo, Mr. Chafin made six addresses from the car platform.

form, but at Jamestown the railroad authorities would not permit speaking from the station, so he had to go to a nearby park, which action aroused unfavorable comment. Mr. Chafin left for the West.

TRAVELING VERY CHEAP

Round the World for Fifty Cents Latest Stunt.

Bunch of Labels on Luggage Creates Quite an Impression.

London, Aug. 28.—If you wish to travel round the world on 50 cents, there is a London portmanteau-maker who can enable you to do it. For the small sum mentioned, you can buy a ticket which entitles you to claim to have traveled from Hongkong to Hobart, N. Z., or elsewhere, and you can visit on route, Paris, Rome, Monte Carlo or any other mortal place.

All you need in order to accomplish this marvelous journey is a bunch of labels, with the name of the various cities to which you wish people to think you have been. Paste these conspicuously on your trunk, your grip bag, your camera, hatbox, and on the blind of your bull pup if you sport one—said pronto—you emerge before the eyes of the public as a full-fledged globe-trotter.

The selling of traveled labels to untraveled travelers is a thriving business in London, Paris, and other of the big European centers. You can buy a whole set of labels covering a certain route if you wish your friends to think you have just come from the Riviera. You can get plenty of labels for Monte Carlo, Nice, Cannes and other resorts. If you prefer a trip down the Rhine, you can get them as easily and as promptly as you can get a new hat.

A label vendor in the Strand said to me: "I let out portmanteaux fully labeled for any trip you like to take."

Some people like to stick on their own assortment of labels, continued my informant, "while others prefer trunk grips and boxes plastered all over with labels. The latter seem to be the better, the better some folk seem to like it and much of our traveled stock that seems as if it could not stand another public appearance is in great demand. We have one dress-suit case that has labels on it showing that it has been in London, Paris, Rome, Monte Carlo, and elsewhere, and it is a queer thing, he concluded, "that people living in flats go in more for the sort of thing than others. I suppose they have been shut up so long in the narrow confines of their small, so-called homes, that when they start out on their imaginary travels, they like to cover as much of the universe as possible."

OVERWORK.

Fast living, fast working, fast thinking bring their reward—sickness. Life's struggle becomes more and more intense as the twentieth century progresses. To equip yourself for the test you must have for it. Steady nerves and a clear mind. These can be secured by drinking S. S. S. daily use of golden grain belt beer, the ideal home beverage. Being brewed of pure barley malt and hops, it furnishes nourishment in predigested form and acts as a tonic. Order Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

FINE RIFLE STOLEN.

Thief Breaks Plate Glass and Removes the Weapon.
Spoonerville, Minn., Aug. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—A robbery was committed at Mr. Weeks' hardware store here Monday about 12:30 o'clock. Mr. Weeks had a fine rifle valued at $35 lying in his show window. The person who appropriated the rifle broke the plate glass with a piece of cordwood, got the rifle and decamped. It is not known who committed the robbery.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

No old sore can heal until the cause which produces it has been removed. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., may reduce the inflammation and assist in keeping the place clean, but cannot cure the trouble because they do not reach its source. Old sores exist because the blood is infected with impurities and poisons which are constantly being discharged into the place. The nerves, tissues and fibres of the flesh are kept in a state of irritation and disease by being daily fed with the germ-laden matter through the circulation, making it impossible for the sore to heal. S. S. S. cures chronic sores by its purifying action on the blood. It goes down into the circulation, and removes the poison-producing germs, impurities and morbid matters which are responsible for the failure of the place to heal. S. S. S. makes the blood pure, fresh, and healthy; then as new, rich blood is carried to the spot the healing process begins, all discharge ceases, the inflammation leaves, new tissue begins to form, the place fills in with firm, healthy flesh, and soon the sore is permanently cured. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, the safest and best blood purifier for young or old. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

MARINE NEWS

BOAT TURNS OVER;
ONE MAN MISSINGCrew of Barge Baldwin
Have a Narrow Escape
Near Manitowoc.

Manitowoc, Aug. 28.—One of the boat's crew of three men is believed to have been lost, another was rescued after clinging to the overturned boat for hours, and a third floated about Lake Michigan for ten hours before being picked up, as a result of the barge Baldwin turning turtle off Twin River point at 5 o'clock this morning.

The barge was bound for Sturgeon Bay laden with stone when she was struck by the heavy seas on rounding Twin River. The disaster happened at 5 o'clock and the tug Forest which was towing the barge failed to discover the accident until morning when she found one of the crew clinging to the bottom of the vessel. Capt. George Hein of Sturgeon Bay, was picked up this afternoon off Keweenaw by the Goodrich steamer Garibaldi. The man had managed to secure life preservers which kept him afloat.

Jack Wittgen of this city is missing and is believed to be lost. Tugs have been searching for him without success since yesterday morning.

CHANGE THEIR MINDS.

Buoy Keeper Will Not Get New House This Year.

The new residence for the government official who takes care of the buoys in the local harbor will not be built this year as was originally intended. The officials at Washington in the early spring gave their consent, and a crew of men was sent to survey the ground, and lay out the dwelling. Lately, however, they have built a concrete warehouse and wharf, and do not feel like making any more improvements this year.

De Graff Released.

Buffalo, Aug. 28.—The steamer Le Grand S. DeGraff was released this morning from the rocks at the west end of the point, after 20 tons of her 11,000 ton cargo had been lightened. After unloading here she will go to Lorain for examination.

tioned. Judge Cant heard the arguments in the case and promptly declared the law constitutional. The case was appealed, and Judge Cant's decision has been affirmed.

The case was argued before the supreme court July 15. Special Counsel Stevenson appearing for the county, and M. Douglas for Whitney Wall. The decision was written by Justice Elliott, Justice Brown dissenting. Following is the syllabus:

The financial condition of counties as disclosed by the assessed valuation of taxable property and existing bonded indebtedness is a proper basis of classification for purposes of legislation allowing the raising of bonds for the increasing bonded indebtedness. Chapter 130 of Laws of 1907 is constitutional. The county officers took a chance and went to the expense of printing and leaving the bonds so that they could be delivered on time in case the supreme court's decision was favorable. They will be turned over to the purchasers next week.

LOCKED IN THE VAULT

Young Woman Imprisoned in the South Shore Office.

To be locked in a vault where the air was being rapidly exhausted, to hear the futile attempts of those outside to open the heavy iron door, and to know that unless the door was opened in a few minutes death would surely result, was the experience of Miss Julia Holland, a young lady in the employ of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, yesterday afternoon. About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Miss Holland walked into the vault, which is seldom used, to get her hat. One of the employees of the office thought it would be a good joke to lock her in. No sooner was the door closed than the combination snapped tight. The young lady was a prisoner in the vault.

The vault has not been used for years, so the combination was not known by anyone in the South Shore office. J. P. Gordon, assistant agent of the road, rushed down the basement of the Palladio building, where the freight department of the South Shore is located, thinking that possibly the janitor might know the combination of the vault. The janitor was not to be found, and the only thing for Mr. Gordon to do was to go over to the Torrey building and look up the combination in the agent's office.

In the meantime the young lady was becoming hysterical. Every effort was being made on the part of the attendants of the office to work the combination. At the top of their voices the members of the office force were shouting encouragement to her. The air in the vault, which is air tight, was becoming rapidly exhausted and the case was becoming desperate.

Slowly the minutes passed and the men grew desperate in their efforts to open the door. Every figure combination failed to work. The cries of the young lady were heard through the heavy iron door. Then suddenly Mr. Gordon rushed into the office with the combination.

With trembling fingers he tried to open the door of the vault. Three times the combination failed to work. The case was growing desperate. The fourth time the combination was tried by Mr. Gordon the door swung backward, and the young lady, faint and hysterical, was released from the vault. All the time the young lady was imprisoned in the vault her companion, a girl who had called at the office shortly before the accident occurred, stood outside the vault and shouted encouragement to Miss Holland. When the door was opened it was difficult to tell which of the young ladies was the most effected.

He blew his lower jaw off and will probably die. Domestic troubles following his arrest for non-support caused the murder and attempted suicide. Kramer is 35 and his wife 36. ORDINANCE NOW READY

Mayor Roland D. Haven will have his new garbage ordinance ready for the council meeting next Monday night. This ordinance goes into detail and disposal of garbage. Air tight wagons will be used to transport garbage material through the streets of the city, doing away with the present annoying leakage of some of the wagons. Mayor Haven hopes that ultimately the city will do all the garbage collecting and disposal, and that by next year the city may have at least two garbage wagons of its own. In any event, the whole system of collection will come under the careful supervision of the city authorities, and men in the business will be compelled to live up to the letter of the ordinance.

The new measure extends the powers of the inspectors in confiscating or disposing of meat scraps, dead bodies of all animals, as well as providing a more sanitary system of moving scraps from butcher shops, restaurants, saloons, etc., and at night, and in any event, the whole system of collection will come under the careful supervision of the city authorities, and men in the business will be compelled to live up to the letter of the ordinance.

Commercial, Stenographic, English and Penmanship courses will be taught. The student will be allowed to take any course or any branch or branches desired. Scores of young men and women in this city should avail themselves of the excellent opportunities afforded in this night school to get, at a nominal outlay, that practical business training that will help them in every-day life. The college office is located at 106¹/₂ West Superior street, third floor, and will be open until 8 o'clock each evening for those who wish to call for particulars. Duluth phone, 367-M; Zenith, 719.

MAKE VERY FAIR HAUL

Thieves Break Into the Tupper-Quigley Company Building.

Thieves broke in the wholesale notion establishment of the Tupper-Quigley company at 325 West Michigan street, last night, and secured $74.75 in cash and about $40 worth of goods. The robbery was discovered this morning. No arrests have been made, and the police have no special clue upon which to work.

The men gained entrance through one of the back windows. They placed a ladder against the side of the building, smashed two panes of glass and by reaching through were able to unlock the window and raise the sash. It is believed there were two men working together on the job.

The money was in a cash register, which was found on the floor, broken open. Evidently it had been smashed by a heavy piece of iron, for the register was almost demolished. After searching thoroughly through the office, hastily running over papers and scattering them about on the floor, the robbers turned their attention to the wholesale notion department. They went pretty thoroughly over the stock of goods, leaving them in bad disorder. Anything that happened to fall on the floor they let lie where it had fallen. After sorting about $60 worth of articles, which evidently were placed in a sack, in true burglar fashion, the men made their way to the window and escaped. Duluth and Superior are being closely watched for an appearance of the stolen articles.

LOOKING OVER DULUTH PAVING

Grand Forks Men in City on Tour of Inspection.

R. B. Griffith, John Lynch, G. W. Buckingham, W. E. Durick and K. C. Hunter, all of Grand Forks, N. D., are in Duluth today inspecting the street pavement of this city. Mr. Griffith is the largest merchant of North Dakota, Mr. Durick is street commissioner of Grand Forks, and Mr. Hunter is president of the city council. Mr. Lynch and Mr. Buckingham are members of the city council.

The gentlemen were the guests of P. D. McDonnell this morning. A trip of inspection was made over the city, and the different kinds of pavement were inspected by the gentlemen. They expressed a very high opinion of the "Donnell" pavement, and it is possible that some of this pavement may be put on the streets of Grand Forks.

The members of the party were taken out to Mr. McDonnell's paving plant and made a thorough inspection of it. This afternoon they will be taken for a ride over the boulevard in Mr. McDonnell's automobile.

Mr. McDonnell is putting in a large amount of street paving at Grand Forks, and the members of the party came to this city to get some pointers. Mr. Hunter stated that the crop of North Dakota will be a little better than the average, as the quality of the grain is very high. The coarse grain crop is very good, and Mr. Hunter states that the farmers of North Dakota will make money this fall. The wheat will be of a higher quality, and it is expected that in some sections of the state the crop will average thirty bushels to the acre.

Mr. Griffith stated that North Dakota is expanding in every way. The state is being settled rapidly, the towns are growing, the farmers are making money, and in every way North Dakota is prosperous.

FRAUD CHARGED IN LAND CASES

Land Department Accuses Swallow & Hopkins of Fraudulent Methods.

Swallow & Hopkins, a Duluth lumber concern, are accused by the United States land commissioner of gaining possession of government land through fraudulent methods. The land in question lies near the Canadian boundary in Lake county, and is near the site of the old Swallow & Hopkins mill. From the evidence taken at the time of the hearing in Duluth some time ago, the commissioner finds that a man by the name of Svend Olson, who was for a number of years employed by Swallow & Hopkins as cruiser, went to Mr. Hopkins and asked him what the land was worth to the lumber concern. Mr. Hopkins said that by reason of the location of the mill the timber alone was worth $500 a quarter section, and that he would pay that price for a clear title to it. Olson asked for money to start his venture and Mr. Hopkins refused to give it to him. Later, however, after a conference with his attorney, Henry S. Mahon, he agreed, it is claimed, to furnish the money, which was to be secured by mortgages in favor of Ross L. Mahon, a brother of Henry S. Mahon. The agreement was understood by the commissioner, was that as soon as possible the titles to the land was to be turned over to the lumber company. Olson then came to Duluth, got twenty-four men and women and took them into the woods, showed them the land and brought them back to Duluth. Later an attempt was made to prove up, but none of the witnesses knew anything about the land, were ignorant as to the source that paid their railroad fare, were unable to give descriptions, and in fact, knew nothing whatever about the land. The suspicions of the land office officials were aroused and an investigation followed. The decision of the commissioner sustains the local land office, and all of the twenty-four entries have been invalidated in the act of April 18, 1908, when all the lands in this district were withdrawn from settlement.

ONE MURDER CASE ON LIST

Twenty-Eight Prisoners Have Been Bound Over to Grand Jury.

Sheriff W. J. Bates and his deputies are busy serving grand jury subpoenas and all those drawn will probably be given the summons by tomorrow. The grand jury will convene next Wednesday morning and get down to work immediately. Twenty-eight prisoners have already been bound over to the grand jury, and the investigation of their cases will take full a week, although none are very complicated.

Chief among the prisoners in the county jail now are William Schrieber, charged with murder; George Hamilton, charged with forgery; and Leonard Korte, charged with assault. Schrieber is suspected of having killed a woman in the woods north of Virginia. There are about fourteen counts of forgery standing against Hamilton, and Korte is charged with stabbing the marshal of Aurora in the back. Three are held for forgery, four for assault, thirteen for grand larceny, one for embezzlement, one for adultery, two for swindling, one for burglary and one for selling liquor without a license. Dora Gibbs is the prisoner charged with blind pigging. She was brought down from the range this week.

HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

Are the results of curing lingering diseases. Chronic and formerly belated incurable diseases cured by medical scientists.

There is hardly a day when the offices of Duluth's scientists are not crowded with men who have suffered for years. Some coming from distances hundreds of miles away because they have been told by some friend what marvelous skill these experts employ in the treatment of even the rarest diseases. They get their patients practically from all parts of the West, some even coming from as far as Wyoming, others having returned from Hot Springs, after finding that Syphilitic blood poison is not as quickly curable as they thought.

They only accept patients which are curable for they think too much of their reputation to experiment on cases which are too far gone. To get a guarantee of a cure seems to be rather risky, yet these experts are so experienced in their art of locating and in their skill of handling these hard and obstinate cases, that they give a legal contract of a cure to every one whom they accept.

These Specialists have been working with the greatest success the last twenty years and from the enormous number they have cured in the last two years, one may form an idea of the energy they are expending in their work. Here are some of the cases they have cured in this time:

HEART DISEASE—240.
RHEUMATISM—301.
SWOLLEN JOINTS—31.
DIABETES—28.
SUGAR IN URINE—66.
BRIGIT'S DISEASE—82.

If you are suffering the pangs of some dread disease what do you gain by ignoring it? You are only piling up future great agony that must eventually be laid before your physician. You will make the task harder for him—the cost to yourself much greater. Remember, you alone cannot subdue disease—while you hesitate, it goes on in its frightful ravages, tearing down your health, racking you with its pains, to eventually leave you an object of loathing to yourself and all mankind. We want you to come and see us. Perhaps you are trying to deceive yourself and others into thinking that "everything is all right."

SHARKEY ANSWERS DALY.

Will Meet Him For a Side Bet or Otherwise.

Kid Sharkey has been worried ever since he saw the challenge of Kid Daly in The Herald a few evenings ago. This morning he could stand it no longer. "I've got to fight that fellow," said the kid as he pulled his cap further over one eye, and shifted to the other foot. "Just say for me that I'll fight him at my own weight, 122 pounds, any way he wishes, for money or otherwise, preferably for a side bet."

"Kid Sharkey is Duluth's own pug. He has conquered everything within reach, and is now stretching out for further honors. Kid Daly is the lad from Port Arthur that blew in a few days ago, looking for a 'mix.' Monday night he boxed ten rounds with Vernon Austin, lightweight champion of Canada, and made good in an exhibition match."

DEMOCRATS SEE CHANCE

To Carry Wisconsin For Bryan After Bitter Primaries.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 29.—With its first primary election for United States senator scheduled for next Tuesday, Wisconsin doesn't care whether or not Taft and Bryan are doing any campaigning. The local fights are so bitter that there is practically no mention of the national ticket. The Republican candidates are counting upon Democratic votes to help them, and fearing to anger Democrats by praise of Republicans, or to alienate Repubicans by praise for Democrats, national issues are left strictly alone.

The Democrats are still clinging on a harmony campaign after the primary, to gather in all the Democratic votes and enough Republican votes to carry the state for Bryan.

The bitterness that is developing in the Republican ranks bodes well for the success of such a plan.

Students who enroll at the Duluth Business University on or before December 1st will be entitled to the regular rates of tuition as quoted above for whatever term they may arrange. The rates will advance after Dec. 31st. It would be difficult, indeed, to find a school doing the work that this school is doing. It is one of the high grade schools in the country but is not asking high grade prices for its tuition. The Duluth Business University has a better equipment or a stronger teaching faculty than has the Duluth Business University, yet the good schools of the Twin Cities charge about 20 per cent more for tuition than does the Duluth Business University. The 18th annual opening of the college is set for Tuesday, Sept. 8th. In the meantime the college office will be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. each week day.

Important to all Women

Readers of this Paper

Women are subject to kidney trouble as men, which fact is often overlooked.

Many woman's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they will cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But thousands of irritable, nervous, tired and broken-down women have restored their health and strength by the use of Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy. Swamp-Root brings new life and activity to the kidneys, the cause of such troubles.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, may address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and receive sample bottle free by mail.

INCREASE IN VALUATION

Figures of County Board of Equalization Have Been Compiled.

Increase Over Last Year Is Heavy Despite Cut By Board.

After many hours of work overtime, the office force of County Auditor Odin Halden today completed the abstracts of the assessed valuation of the county, and these will be sent in today to the state auditor. The findings of the board of equalization at its session, which closed two weeks ago, are compiled, and the results bring out some interesting facts.

Interest in the work of the board centered on its treatment of the assessments of the city of Duluth, against which there was a vigorous protest by business men and property holders in Duluth. The valuation of the city board of review was $29,535,859 on the real estate of the city and $3,843,000 on the personal property. The board of equalization cut the value of the real estate to $28,043,612 and the personal property to $3,843,000, but did not change the figures on personal property, giving the city a total valuation of $31,886,612.

Despite the fact that the figures of the board of review were cut nearly a million and a half dollars and that this year about a million and a half dollars more worth of property existed than there was last year, the assessed valuation of the city is substantially increased by the board of equalization. Last year the valuation was $21,901,213, an increase of $9,985,400.

Last year's figures include considerable property, which was last year's taxes, but is this year exempt. The bulk of it consisted of the Wisconsin Central right of way, which is exempt. The purchase of the courthouse site by the county cut off $800,000 of assessable property, making a total of $1,500,000. Despite this, however, the increase in the city is but $3,985,400, or $2,484,200, an increase of $3,985,400.

Valuable business property on First, Superior and Michigan streets was increased in valuation 25 per cent over the assessor's figures two years ago. Substantial increases were made in the city valuations on East and Holmes. Property on East Holmes, however, though on the face of the figures, the increase in the city is but $3,985,400, or $2,484,200, an increase of $3,985,400.

The valuations set by the assessors in the country districts of the county were considerably lower than those in the city, the figures of the board of equalization on the whole county show an increase over the assessor's figures, so that the country districts made up more than the city, while the showing more. The assessor's figures on the whole county were $28,818,000, while the final valuation set by the board of equalization is $22,905,508, an increase of $5,912,492.

Headed by the five and drum corps of Willis A. German post, a party of G. A. R. members left this morning for Toledo, Ohio, where the veterans of the War of the Rebellion will gather in reunion next week. Duluth will be represented at the encampment, and the five and drum corps, which is the pride of the local veterans, will occupy a prominent place in the parade at Toledo next week. About 300 members will go from Minneapolis today. They represent the state department and will be under the command of Marcus F. Boles of Duluth, the state commander.

The following letter was received by The Herald this morning from Edwin E. Force with a request that he be published to show what the citizens of Toledo are doing to entertain the fast disappearing band, which has honored the city by its presence:

"I thought I would let the old comrades at home know how it looks here in this city. They are hard at work covering every building with flags. Every hotel is now full, and all that come will have to go to private houses. I was fortunate enough to secure a room in the Jefferson, only a few doors from the Society house, where the Minnesota headquarters is located. Some of the departments are here. Utah is one, and they are hard at work to secure the next national encampment at Gettysburg, Pa., but the majority oppose Atlanta as the place next of present appearances. Gen. John T. Walker of Tennessee will be the next commander in chief. Van Sant does not stand any show to get it. They say that the department has had all the honors it is entitled to at present and they must be given to departments that have not yet been recognized.

"While in Adrian I met a former Duluth boy, Harry D. Pearson, who lives at 240 Fernwood avenue, Toledo. He is making preparations to entertain his friends, Capt. Prescott and wife, whom he expects, will be present. If he fails to show up, some other local commander will find good quarters there. They are making arrangements in their behalf to furnish free quarters to those who wish it. They will have to hang their blankets as there is no any rise in the table board. One can get a good meal for 25 cents. The trolley lines run all over this section, and the rates are low. One can go to Detroit and return for 75 cents and the price is about the same at Cleveland, Toronto and Dayton, Ohio. There will be all kinds of lake excursions. The place next will not attempt to march. It will be two miles over a rough pavement. Since I have been in Indiana, Michigan and Ohio the weather has been delightful and very cool. I fear we will have a hot week next week. Your truly,

"Edwin E. Force."

Hay Fever and Summer Colds.

Victims of hay fever will experience great benefit by taking Foley's Honey and Tar, as it stops difficult breathing immediately and breaks the inflamed air passages, and even if it should fail to cure you it will give instant relief. The genuine is in a yellow container. Sold by all druggists.

Cooking in Camp.

Campers as a rule are more or less ignorant of the art of cooking. They eat, and these, like ready-to-heat foods, do not fit just as they should. Only the best brands should be purchased. In making up your list of necessities, be sure to include a good supply of golden grain, as the water supply may be scarce. It is a valuable aid to digestion, as it is a natural food, and is made of the purest ingredients. Sold by all druggists.

Officer Is Suspended.

Officer Dan Parsons of the city police force was suspended for thirty days by the fire and police commission last evening on charges preferred by Chief McKinnon, who complained that Parsons had slept on his beat. The chief reported two or three cases of negligence and the commission took action. Parsons has been on the force eight years and it was his first appearance "on the carpet" so the punishment was made somewhat lighter than it would have been but for his good record.

Looking For Relatives.

The search for the relatives of Erick Young, who was murdered at Foxboro has thus far been unsuccessful. The authorities do not believe the man's name was Young, as he was a foreigner and it is believed he took the name on account of the difficulty of pronunciation of his own name.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—The movement started in Norway to persuade Norwegians in America to return to their native land will not succeed, according to Dr. Niles T. Quales, who has just returned from a two months' visit in Norway.

Dr. Quales is president of the Norwegian Old Peoples' home, and active in hospital and charity work among his countrymen here.

"The attempt to induce Norwegians to return to Norway will be a failure, and money expended in the movement will be wasted," he said. "The movement is well launched, and lecturers already have been selected to be sent to the various cities. The only chance of these speakers are those Norwegians who have no ties here, and either to this country or their native land."

MRS. RUSSELL SAGE GETS $63,778,800

Her Share of Husband's Estate Appraised at That Amount.

New York, Aug. 29.—The report of the appraisal of the estate of the late Russell Sage, as approved by Surgeon Beckett, includes loans in great sums to many of the most prominent firms in Wall street. All of these loans have been collected in cash since Mr. Sage's death, as a failure to give up the required amounts would necessitate forfeiture of the stocks or bonds deposited as security.

There is also in the report an interesting account of the stocks and investments that Mr. Sage went into, apparently without profit, as the appraiser places their value at "nominal." Mrs. Sage's share of the estate was appraised at $63,778,800, while the twenty-nine collateral relatives went $865,000. The transfer tax on the entire estate was $26,538.

According to the appraiser's estimate, Mr. Sage was the possessor of something between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000 worth of stocks and bonds, and at the time of his death held mortgages on properties worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. His real estate holdings amounted to $1,945,000.

When Russell Sage died, Wall street owed him more than $21,000,000, which has since been paid.

Besides the baron's relatives and representatives of Emperor William and King Frederick Augustus of Saxony, Dr. David Jayne Hill, the American ambassador, who represented President Roosevelt, St. John Gaffney, American consul general at Dresden, and a number of old comrades of Baron Sternberg, were present. The population of the entire countryside also gathered to pay a last tribute of respect to the dead diplomat.

THE CHORUS OF "COMING THRO' THE RYE."

SCENE FROM "THE CLANSMAN."

AT THE LYCEUM

The Regular Fall and Winter Theatrical Season Will Open Next Week With Some Strong Attractions—Mack-Leones Close Engagement.

Next week will mark the opening of the fall and winter theatrical season in Duluth.

The Mack-Leone players close their engagement here this evening, and next week the first of the regular road shows will make their appearance.

The list for next week is a good one. Monday and Tuesday, "Coming Thro' the Rye" will be the attraction, followed on Wednesday by Joseph and William Jefferson in "The Rivals." On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "The Honeymooners" will be at the Lyceum, and the following Monday "The Clansman" will be here.

"COMING THRO' THE RYE."

Popular Musical Comedy Will Return to Lyceum Monday and Tuesday.

"Coming Thro' the Rye," the popular musical comedy which comes to the Lyceum on Monday and Tuesday needs no introduction to Duluth. It has been witnessed by many local theatergoers, and it is safe to say that the general opinion is that it is one of the best of all the musical comedies that have been presented in this city. There is a delightful charm to this entertainment which no lavish display of sartorial embellishment can affect. Shorn entirely of its magnificent equipment of scenery and costumes, "Coming Thro' the Rye" would thoroughly delight an audience. Its comedy is bright and extremely clever; its situations are unapologetically skilfully drawn; its music is melodious and "catchy"; and the work generally of both author and composer, appeals to the sense of humor and to the love of genuinely good music. Nothing, apparently, has been left undone by the projectors of this production to make it rate among America's best amusement offerings. The presenting company is unusually large in numbers and it is made up of exceptionally capable artists, from Tom Waters, who plays the principal com-

"THE HONEYMOONERS."

Big Cohan Show Coming for Three Nights Next Week.

George M. Cohan's latest and best musical production, "The Honeymooners," comes to the Lyceum Thursday, Friday and Saturday matinee and night, with the big New York cast of favorite actors and a splendid metropolitan production. Lovers of American drama at its best will look forward with pleasant anticipation to this engagement, which is among the most noteworthy of the season. The play is as celebrated as any dramatic offering of the past fifty years. Founded on those famous novels, "The Leopard's Spots" and "The Clansman," it is in character and treatment an original work. No scene which could justly give offense from a dramatic or moral standpoint has been retained; but it is rich in comedy, in love interest, and full of tragic power, particularly in its delineation of the terrible Ku Klux Klan. Among the chief scenes utilized are those of the Ku Klux Klan den, a vast ill-lighted cave in the mountain side, the rose garden of the Cameron home; the interior of this historic South Carolina mansion; and the library of Lieut. Gov. Lynch's home. The action of the play does not last for a moment. Pictures of Southern life pass before the eyes of the thrilling reconstruction story is being enacted. Indeed, "The Clansman" has been highly valued for its fidelity to the Southern atmosphere. Whether one cares anything about the political struggles between the Carpetbaggers and Conservatives or not, he is enthralled by it simply as a play. "The Clansman" has been received with equal enthusiasm in all parts of the country. Its success was great the past three seasons in New York, Chicago and in the great Northern cities. In its whirlwind tour of the South, for "The Clansman" the original producer, the company has been secured, including such well-known actors as Franklin Ritchie, Eugene Hayden, George M. Dwyer, Maude Durand, Barry Maxwell, Ruth Hart, Guy B. Hoffman, M. J. Jordan, Edna Davis, Earl Lester, Clara Morrison, Joseph L. Sweeney, Earl Ritchie, Gus Ingels and Harry Quinn.

"THE RIVALS."

Classic Comedy Will be Presented by the Jeffersons Brothers.

How thoroughly the artistic capabilities of the players of the present day assimilate with the classical plays of the authors of a century or more ago is clearly shown in the combination of Messrs. Joseph and William W. Jefferson in their performance of Richard Sheridan's brilliant comedy, "The Rivals." Sheridan wrote "The Rivals" in 1774. It was subjected to posthumous criticism, but emerged unscathed bearing the approbative recommendations of the heartiest connoisseurs who flourished most numerously during the eighteenth century. Even the harshest critics were compelled to recognize the wonderful beauty in literary construction, because it is undeniable that the comedy includes a brilliancy of wit and a story of heart interest which has seldom been equaled.

The much abused title of classic was justly bestowed on this exceptional comedy and the best possible proof of its true value lies in the fact that there is not a single library of any literary pretensions in the English speaking world but what gives an exalted place to a copy of "The Rivals."

Another proof of its great worth is that it has been regularly produced by the very best of theatrical companies every year since its premier. It is doubtful if any other play—not excepting any single play of the immortal bard—can claim any such record. One hundred and thirty-three consecutive years is a positively wonderful record for anything—yet this is the recognized accomplishment of "The Rivals."

The late Joseph Jefferson considered it his greatest comedy. He loved scenery and costumes are magnificent. "The Honeymooners" is one laugh from start to finish and the musical numbers are the kind you whistle and sing.

SENSATIONAL PLAY COMING.

"The Clansman" to be Seen Here With New York Cast.

That much talked of play, "The Clansman," is booked for Labor day, matinee and night, with the big New York cast of favorite actors and a splendid metropolitan production. his part in the play as he loved any one of his children. When he relinquished the role of Bob Acres to his son, William W., he bestowed on the boy a great honor. The son is as zealous in the proper presentation of the possibilities of Bob Acres as any mother ever was of her child's best efforts. Another son—the elder Jefferson's namesake, Joseph, assumes the character of Sir Lucius O'Trigger—the favorite part of the late W. F. Ffrench. The work of the two younger Jeffersons, even if confined to their parts in "The Rivals" alone, is proof positive of their ability to perpetuate the name and fame of the Jeffersons. Joseph and William W. Jefferson, supported by a company of distinguished thespians will present this classic comedy at the Lyceum, Wednesday matinee and night, Sept. 2.

LYCEUM NOTES.

News and Gossip of Attractions Booked for Duluth.

James J. Corbett delights in telling this story: Years ago when he was a bank clerk in San Francisco, he was going home one evening when he overtook two of his neighbors assisting themselves to their respective domiciles. As he passed one of them yelled out: "Hello Jimmy, but, Casey, it's Mr. Corbett now. Sure an ain't he in the bank?" "I'm ashamed of yez, don't mind him," Mr. Corbett, he'd drunk. "Huh," replied Casey, "so it's Mister

Corbett now," then collecting himself he turned on Dugan saying: "Who's drunk, now it's he yer tellin' Dugan and ye wouldn't dare say it to me face if I was sober. 'No' hiccoughed Dugan, 'I wouldn't because if ye was sober ye'd have shins enough to know that yez were drunk. Mr. Corbett will be at the Lyceum this fall.

"Checkers" is a story of the race track, of the horse and the men whose hearts beat time to their hoof beats. It begins with a dash like all races should, and it ends with a dash, and in between there are moments when the underdog and the favorite are mixed in the dirt of the course, and rider and horse are hidden with dust. In those moments there are pathos and pain, sighs and remorse, and then once more the race begins, and the heart beats to the drum of the race. The fifty dollar gold piece his sweat and blood smites on him and he wins both fortune and her. "Checkers" is a Lyceum far booking.

One of the most attractive of the present theatrical season here is the popular Irish actor, Chas. O'Connell, in a new romantic play entitled, "Hazel Robin." Under the auspices of the veteran producer, Augustus F. O'Connell, a production is promised that for excellence of cast, magnificence of scenery, and completeness of detail, surpasses all former plays presented with Mr. O'Connell as a star.

The most pretentious production in every sense that Manager John Cort has yet met for his remarkably successful star Max Pligman, is "The Substitute," which is announced for early date in this city. The play is said to be a comedy drama suggested by events in real life that came under the observation of the authors, Benajah M. Dix and Evelyn Greenleaf. Substantial and responsible for the great New York success "The Road to Yesterday," and are certainly possessed of some quaint and original ideas.

During Mr. Mantell's Western tour he will appear in the following magnificent repertory: "Shakespeare's 'Macbeth,'" "King Lear," "Hamlet," and "King Richard III." He will also present Bulwer Lytton's powerful and romantic "The Last Days of Pompeii," and the first time since the days of Edwin Booth that the thrilling play has had a good presentation.

In the result of a long theatrical season it is noticed that "When Old New York Was Dutch" is the play of the Bijou a year ago, will be Edward Jolly and Winnifred Wild, in their own comedy piano act, entitled "The Music Teacher." The act has been greatly improved since these clever entertainers last played in Duluth, and the patrons will enjoy it more than ever.

A refined sketch act and one that deserves much credit will be presented by the well known vaudeville artists, Walter Hawley and Natalie O'Connell. The title of the act is "Just Married a Week."

As an extra feature attraction and one that Manager Maitland promises to be the best gymnastic act that has appeared at the Bijou, will be "The Three Newsomes," who are European gymnastic marvels presenting the most difficult acrobatic novelty before the public. The act includes two women and one man, and they are now making their first American tour in vaudeville, which has been a sensation wherever they have appeared up to the present time. AT THE BIJOU

Famous English Gymnasts and Novelty Musical Barber Acts Are Features for Next Week's Vaudeville Bill.

Feature vaudeville will be seen in abundance next week, as each act could be classed as the headline attraction.

The management has gone to considerable expense in securing such features as "The Four Magnanis," which will be the principal feature of the week. This clever troupe is presenting one of the best novelty musical acts ever seen in vaudeville, entitled "The Musical Barbers."

JOE HARDMAN, At the Bijou Next Week.

A recent press notice from the New Haven Evening Register, when the Magnanis were playing at Pells theater on the Keith circuit, said: "The Magnanis family, as the musical barbers, offer a distinct novelty musical number of merit. The scene, which is elaborately staged, opens upon a barber shop. Very soon the chairs, razors, curlers and other implements are made to give forth musical tunes. The selections they play are out of the ordinary, and the entire act shows skill and patience in bringing it to such a high standard of perfection."

Among the many other star attractions will be Joe Hardman, who styles himself "The Happy Humorist, Who Hammers Hilarity into Heavy Hearts." Two big favorites who appeared at the Bijou a year ago, will be Edward Jolly and Winnifred Wild, in their own comedy piano act, entitled "The Music Teacher." The act has been greatly improved since these clever entertainers last played in Duluth, and the patrons will enjoy it more than ever.

THE SWEDISH DANCERS.

Famous Entertainers Will Play Week's Engagement at Lester Park.

The Swedish National Dancers who will be seen at Lester park in an engagement beginning tonight and lasting all of next week, come from the great historical and ethnographical gardens of Skansen, Stockholm. These dancers form an adjunct to the northern museum of ethnography and folk lore created by the noted scholar Dr. Hazelius.

The dancers are sons and daughters of the people, selected by Dr. Hazelius to come to Skansen, there to revive the quaint and charming folk dances of their respective home provinces. These dances in the middle ages were the vogue among the aristocracy of the country, but when discarded and forgotten by them, faithfully preserved by the peasantry. Yet in use through centuries, they had become almost extinct when their revival at Skansen was accomplished. The folk dances of Sweden afford an entertainment most unusual in character; their half mystic origin coupled with their unsophisticated rustic charm making them really interesting and a delight to the eye. Without exaggeration it may be said that these dances are the most varied and most picturesque exhibition in their line seen upon the stage today.

The troupe of Skansen National Dancers now on tour is the only one of its kind in existence and includes all the most noted of the proficient folk dancers of Sweden. The Skansen National Dancers have long been the favorites of Stockholm and Sweden at large. No tourist visiting the capital of Sweden has missed admiring the ethnographical gardens or to be enthralled with the graceful and pleasing evolutions of the national dancers. When the clergy in conference at Stockholm, on the motion of one of the bishops, the conference adjourned for an outing to Skansen, where the national dances especially pleased the ecclesiastical dignitaries. Dr. Paul Waldenström, the champion bannerman of the free church, is a great enthusiast and never fails to see the national dances during his frequent visits to Skansen.

PITTSBURG TAKES ONE

Wins From Philadelphia on Double in the Eighth.

Both Teams Play Excellent Game—Leever Pitches Great Ball.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 28.—Pittsburg advanced a few points in the pennant race yesterday by taking an exciting game from Philadelphia by a score of 1 to 0. The winning run was made in the eighth inning, when Leach doubled to left and scored on Shannon's single. Outside of this inning Pittsburg had a man on third base twice and the visitors three times, but both teams were unable to score. The game was replete with fast fielding by both sides. Leever pitched a splendid game, keeping the hits scattered and being especially strong with men on bases. McQuillen did well.

TEAM WILL BE STRONG

Football Practice Will Begin in Earnest in One Week's Time.

Good Chance of Landing State Championship This Year.

Never did prospects look so bright for a winning team at the Central high as they do this year. With eight of the old men back, Capt. Crawford, and Coach Chauncey Colton to instruct them, and a wealth of new material, the high school bunch bids fair to rival even the great record made by the team of 1902, which, it will be remembered, was not scored on during the season.

The opening of school is but a week off, and it is then that the new student manager will be elected at a meeting of the school association, which will get busy at once, and with the help of Faculty Manager Phillips, frame up the strongest schedule in the history of the school.

There has been no regular practice as yet, the boys being scattered all over the city, while in many instances they have not as yet returned from their summer vacations. Some of the best have spent the summer piling lumber up on the range.

The face of little Cautkins will be made during that one year that he will be missed greatly; but the boys think they have found a good kicker.

Then there is Earl Cunningham, brother of "Al," who brought the school into the state championship last year, and gained many yards when they were in a bind.

Only three places are to be filled, and a great choice of raw stuff to choose from makes it begin to look as though the team this year would break all records.

If they do not meet opposition from the faculty manager, the boys plan on averaging twelve games with the strongest teams in the state, and will do their best to once more bring to the school and Duluth the championship of the Northwest.

Vice President C. M. Griggs Reviews Entries for Races.

The race remains to start in the 7 City trot of Thursday, Sept. 3, horses of the 2:08 class, who will receive the $2,000 prize purse. Also Bibbing, Minn., has entered the Pat Ford who won the $5,000 trot the Minnesota state fair track 1 1/2 years ago. Wagon, Star, Star Ann and Red Cross are among the horses entered in this event, and to California, Iowa, Indiana, Oklahoma and Illinois.

Also on the card for Thursday, Sept. 3 will be the 2:16 pace, in which there are sixteen probable starters and a few "freshies" whose tenures do not look like a high class deal.

Of the sixteen horses originally from the Minneapolis area, only five are scheduled for Friday, Sept. 4, and ten remain to contest the $5,000 prize hung up for the :21 class. In this field there will be the Zoo and Zomalta, a son and daughter of the famous Zumbro, whose father McKinney sold for $50,000 three years ago. I saw Zomalta win two races at Detroit two weeks ago and beat big fields easily. Zomalta has a mark well below 2:10, and The Zoo worked a mile on the state fair tracks last week during the last half mile in 1:02 3/4.

Today, Wright will meet Champion William A. Larned of Annapolis, Md., in the match for the title. While Larned, up to yesterday, has generally been looked upon as well assured of the retention of the championship for another year, the showing made by the Boston man caused the experts to feel much doubt as to the probability of outcome. Today's contest Wright lost only one set throughout the tournament, that being to Ned Emerson of Chicago, in the final. Wright won the championship in 1905, while the title has fallen to Larned three times, in 1901, 1906 and 1907.

The horses on exhibition were stallions, including the famous "Old Red" and "Old Red and Redoun," the mare Abigail. They represented a beautiful set of well-prancing and well-gaited horses, and were all hidden at full speed before the company, and then others would follow.

The new modifications for 1968 aimed at lightening and clearing up some tactical points. Last season critics complained that the game was too complicated, made, as long passes were made, and that old hands said the game was losing its rugged features. The critics called for appreciation of the game's subtleties and for more attacking play. As a result, it requires less than the usual strategy, or the defense, if they are playing well. It provides a good deal of freedom for the offense. Penalties are unlimited with the proved methods of passing the ball. Fielding lost of the ball is not penalized. The game has no artificial and originality of the vast number that are com-

Specs was the first and probably the last pitcher to wear eyeglasses as work spectacles in a game. The Deacon brothers—Amos, Lave and Frank—were especially Amos and Lave, have contributed much to baseball history. They have the Tannehill-Jesse and the Deacon-O'Leary families formed one of the Cardinals' big names for two seasons. NORTH BUTTE NEARLY READY FOR STRIKE AT THE HOATSON, SCANLON AND CLARK MINES

For Crosscutting on 2,000 and 2,200-Foot Levels of Speculator Shaft---Will Give 400 Feet More of Stopping Ground.

At present, at recent date, investigated the conditions at the Seaton-Clark property, and the same was found to be apparent in the transaction noted above—the final transfer of the property to the Mammoth Hot Springs National Park and payment in full therefor.

It is proposed that the Calumet and Hecla Mining Co. will shortly install a plant on the property, to close down the same, and a short line of railway to Mammoth Hot Springs, which will be a connection with a contemplated line from Benson to Mammoth Hot Springs, and will be a mile over comparatively level ground, skirting the San Pedro River, and crossing the same at Benson in that stretch.

Five years ago a survey was necessary to locate a twelve-mile stretch by the Santa Fe railway, which also secured right-of-way for the same. It was then proposed to take the route, after the agents were appointed to carry out the same, in the month of August, 1904, and in the month of September, 1904, in securing the necessary signatures. The route was then proposed to be a connection at Benson, or even at Dudleyville, twenty miles from San Pedro. They did have a connection at Dudleyville. The Southern Pacific company absorbed the latter property, and the route was then proposed to Benson extended past Mammoth to

Two-Dollar Assessment to be Paid in Four Installments---Additional Mining Interests to be Turned Over to New Company.

Question of Payments.—A substantial question exists between the company and the vendors as to whether the vendors or the company are bound to make the repayments. But under the plan which is now proposed the vendors will convey to the new company property worth $100,000, and the company will easily worth a sum largely in excess of the deferred payments.

Messrs. Corbin, Leach and Helms have organized a new company:

- (A) An undivided one-quarter interest in the Davis estate, comprising 100 acres of the numerous city lots and other property.
- (B) And covenant to convey any and all other property owned or acquired within or contiguous to the exterior

The arrangement thus made was an advance for every shareholder of the old company, regardless of whether the vendor of the property was a creditor or not. It made the deferred payments or notes of the old company payable in cash since the new company was to have the property of far greater value than the sums thus to be paid and the old company was to be liquidated, uniting the entire ownership of the property, rather than being controlled by a few shareholders, and interest thereon outstanding.

The properties which will be united in the new company embrace mines, rights under a surface area of about a mile in width, and a large tract of a mile in width in the center of a copper-producing some of Butte, Montana, and very large production of mines.

deavored was the sinking of a ship. At a depth of only 18 inches of ore, the flow of water was sufficient to prevent them from getting to the bottom of the shaft. The tunnel was then started with the result that the water was higher than the ore, and the water was every indication of permanency, a higher value than the ore. The water was not handicapped by the water. They will not drift along the foot, seeking for a better place. The grade is so low that the water will and will later cross the vein. Some distance from the vein, the water may not be so great where they need cut to the surface.

A new shipper on the Mesaba is the Mesaba Iron Ore Co., which has a large property, midway between Iron Point and McKinley. Ore is also being shipped from the Mesaba Iron Larkin mine, formerly the Tesora, and the Mesaba Iron Co. It is possible will be made at the two mines the remainder of the season, and the Mesaba Iron Larkin mine will aggregate 100,000 tons. Aside from the Lake Superior Iron Co. and the Mesaba active list in the Virginia field, as well as many men are employed in the Mesaba field. In all, some 1,600 workers are employed. ly to the ore blocks. The Superior developments that the company has decided to increase the initial capacity of the mill from 2,000 to 2,600 tons.

The developments at the properties of the company are expected to continue to be of the most favorable character. There is no doubt that the company will develop a large and profitable mine. Operations are on a large scale and the company is in a position to develop the mine in the not distant future as well as in the shipping.

The development work at the Montomery mine of the Ward is gratifying results and the sinking of No. 4 winze to 133 feet at present. The crosscut at fifty feet in this winze is also being sunk. Late reports from the Superior and Ward developments are very satisfactory. Drifting from the bottom of the winze at the Ward is being continued. The daily shipments of forty tons of ore are being made to the Superior and the Ward is also being shipped. A Ward shaft has reached a depth of 330 feet.

description of the extent of the rich ore to date can not be given very accurately. And of course it hasn't been thoroughly opened up yet. On Thursday, the 10th inst., the mine had been taken out of a space about four feet square, and to a depth of several feet, and the ore was found to be very similar to those of the Leadville, just southwest of town. The ore is a siliceous iron ore, and the silver ore have been shipped. The Leadville are averaged 40 per cent lead, silver from seven to twelve per cent in silver.

It is the intention of the owners to make a small shaft, which will contain little or no silica or zinc, hence the ore will be a clean, bright, siliceous, be light. It is a down hill haul all the way to the depot, and the cost of the haul, and the transportation expenses would not be very heavy.

of the drift now approaching a length of 200 feet, either are mined and sacked or sold as placer material. The gold being free from base, it will probably pay $700 per ton, the ore being free from base. The gold is very fine and black, and is found throughout the pan.

The additional five stamps will be installed as quickly as possible. Claims located along the dyke of porphyry have been made up with 75 ft. of barren and values are coming from nearly all claims where work is being done.

"As depth is attained the oxidized zone is reached, and the ore becomes harder," says an officer of the company.

The present workings on the Uniontilla are indicative of a complete alteration in the formation and appearance of the deposit. Being met with what was the predominating matter in the old workings, the quartz veins and prospects will eventually turn into a well defined quartz vein, with a width of 25 to 75 ft., extending throughout the whole width of the dyke from 25 to 75 feet.

The Severe Tailored Shirtwaist Again

The Tailored Shirtwaist and the Street Suits - "Jackie" Waists for Those Who Favor Nautical Effects - Waist Helps for the Business Woman - Belts.

Among the new tailored shirtwaists of linen which will be more than ever worn this autumn, especially with those simple, smart English models and light-weight street suits, are two models which deserve consideration at the hands of the girl who is so energetic that she professes to fashion her own blouses. One of these is rather military in effect, as it is all of close fitting, the narrow box pleats in which its fronts and back are laid being stitched down flatly. The fronts close bluntly beneath a dry and decorating them are two three-set groups of black braid military ornaments looping over tiny buttons. The rather small shirt sleeves are box pleated horizontally from shoulder to cuffs which, like the high collar, are trimmed to match the blouse front. The other waist has two deep side pleats crossing the shoulders, a wide front fastening, obvious buttons and regulation mannish shirt sleeves.

The Nautical Blouse Again.

The "Jackie" waist has ever appealed to the girl who likes a comfortable morning blouse. Some of the new models are made up in the striped washable silks showing laundry effects, or the dull browns, grays and blues which accord so well with mobile gold skirts, and a great many of them are made of this cashmere, challis or muslin veiling.

If the blouse is not designed to be washed it is trimmed with fancy silk braid or with narrow ribbon, otherwise tailored stitching is advisable.

Unbleached Muslin for Outings.

Unbleached shirtwaists strictly for autumn outing purposes are made in conventional shirtwaist style, with rather full, untucked fronts and back, turnover soft collars and three-quarters sleeves with turnback cuffs. Others are in sailor style, with no opening in front or back, but with the neck sufficiently wide that they may be slipped on over the head. Most of them have colored collars and cuffs and straight, narrow belts, as those are the portions of the garment liable to become most readily soiled. They are worn with skirts of heavy plain colored cotton, usually denim, which is the best of all materials for fishing, boating and climbing.

Japanese Cotton Crepes.

For the economical tourist or the business woman who must carefully count the pennies of her weekly stipend the blouses of Japanese cotton crepe are a real boon. Preferably such garments should not be tucked, as they will then be less readily "home" laundered, but they may have deep shoulder pleats and invisible front bands and their collars and cuffs should be detachable. When soiled they need only be washed in lukewarm water with first-class laundry soap, shaken out thoroughly and then hung up to dry. Ironing is not absolutely necessary.

Pique is Popular.

Because of its well-known laundable qualities pique is fast becoming a popular material for separate waists of the severely tailored type. Because of the weight and firmness of the weave it is difficult to pleat it fully or launder it satisfactorily when so treated. Consequently the majority of such blouses are made on the general lines of the Peter Pan, but without the distinguishing little pocket, and the visible front opening. Instead of pleats bands of bold openwork embroidery are employed vertically on fronts and back, or the blouse is generously embroidered in self-colored soutache. This makes it infinitely more ornamental than the strictly tailored garment of less flexible material, and it is perfectly adapted to even midwinter weather, as a thick high-necked and long-sleeved underwaist may be worn beneath it without any chance of being detected.

Tailored Waist Belts.

Before leaving the topic of strictly tailored and utility waists designed to accompany natty short skirts it may be stated that the correct belt should be severely plain.

Woven cotton beltings come in embroidered effects in every imaginable color, with white or black and in broad or medium width. There are all-silk beltings, the effects as well as those in silk elastic, but the smartest tailor glides of the moment are the more silk beltings. These come by the yard and their ends need only be slipped through the buckles, of which every woman should have several sets—black, white and silver or gilt metal.

The Business Woman's Blouse.

Women who go early to business and must necessarily dress hurriedly are hailing with delight a new waist which opens in front and is guileless of the omnipresent box pleat and button fastening. These are being made up in pongee, moiré, soft silk and lightweight French annel and are so simple that even an amateur may hope to turn out a satisfactory specimen. The narrow piped pleats crossing the shoulder are stitched down flatly into the small arm size, which is also piped, and the long sleeve, with just a suggestion of fullness at the top and close fitting at the wrist, is finished with a narrow turnback cuff. The fronts, ornamented with buttons and cord loops, close invisibly with snap fasteners and the plain standing collar is freshened daily with a narrow embroidered muslin turnover.

Striped Materials Smart.

In the shops at this season are to be picked up an infinite variety of remnants, from which may be evolved exceedingly attractive-looking separate waists which will serve for any number of occasions when it is not convenient to wear an elaborate costume and a strictly tailored suit and waist would be out of the question. Some of these fabrics are in white and delicate shades of blue and rose, with fine satin stripes of self-color. Often these materials are so wide that two yards will make a back-closing blouse, with many fine pleats forming a yoke across the shoulders onto which may be set a pointed or square lace yoke, bordered with plain satin or velvet ribbon, and finished with a high stock collar. The sleeve may be of the leg-of-mutton or puff order, of seven-eighths length, shirred into the armholes and finished below the elbow with Van Dyke cuffs of lace, ribbon band. After the waist is completed the silk should be cut away from beneath the lace trimming the yoke, collar and sleeves, as the semitransparent effect will add immeasurably to its dressy appearance.

The Pompadour Fad.

The fancy for flowered materials which has prevailed during the summer still extends to the separate waist, which, mercifully, has not been developed in printed cretonte, although there were boleros, overwaists, high girdles, collars and cuffs of it. Nothing was lacking save the sleeves and yoke. Having been spared these we may regard the silk flowered muslin waist admirably. This looks delicate, lightweight, whereas it is suitable for the coldest of weather, being lined with the coldest of weather, being lined with this India silk, of the same tint as the ground of the semi-transparent material. These blouses do not require any lace trimmings and their principal points of decoration are the fronts, which show a frilly jabot of finest flowered net and their monaqueta sleeves which are shirred in three sections upon narrow ribbons extending from shoulder to wrist, where deep net ruffles fall over the hand.

Net Blouses for Winter.

The net blouses which have played so important a role for months past will be worn throughout the winter, but in a simpler form, as not so much lace and more tucking will be employed in their makeup. For this reason a very good quality of net should be selected if the garment is to prove really serviceable. Some of these new blouses have quite wide box pleats at back and front, the edge of each pleat finished with a fall of narrow Valenciennes or Irish crochet buttons and drops are set, or there are narrow straps of biased white satin or taffetas.

Sleeve Suggestions.

The main effort of the designers of separate blouses at present seems to be the preservation of the natural outlines of the shoulders and to effect this result they are placing as few gathers as possible in the sleeves of even the thinnest fabrics. In some of the more elaborate of such blouses there are long, clinging sleeves of tulle or lace which go almost plainly into the arm size, are shirred ever so slightly onto the narrow tape which holds the inner seam in position and at the wrists are so close fitting that they are fastened with tiny buttons and loops after the garment is adjusted. The draped sleeve is exceedingly popular and deservedly so, since it affords the owners of an extensive collection of handsome short-sleeved blouses an opportunity to use them all winter, as all that is necessary to refurbish them is to remove the original cuff and replace it with the one of elbow length. This may be of finely brooked material, matching the blouse, or if it is impossible to match it, of net or lace or embroidery, according to which of these trimmings will best accord with those about the neck.

China Silk Slips.

To facilitate the occasional cleaning of the white silk blouse there should be no lining in it other than the skeleton-like affair necessary to hold it in shape, but its appearance is largely due to the quality of the slip worn beneath it. The only thing possible to carry out the flimsy effect is the white china silk slip that is carefully fitted and boned and so daintily finished about the neck and sleeve ends that a glimpse of them will not detract from the appearance of the outer garment. Slips of this character which may be purchased ready-made are of exceedingly good shape, but still they are not by any means faultless. Therefore the average woman will do well to have them refitted, as their perfect shape will have an immense effect upon the good appearance of the net blouse above them.

Lingerie Blouses Still Lead.

Although the lingerie blouse receives periodical abuse at the hands of the press and has been the subject of many ribald jeers asent its perfections, it remains the most sanitary garment in the feminine wardrobe. The sepiers which are supposed to blow through it do not touch the wearer, for with the first chill of autumn she dons her thin silk lining, and so soon as the thickest stain appears upon it off she sends it to the laundress or the dry cleaner's, according to the decree of its fragility. The stoutest of the lingerie blouses are those made wholly of allover embroidery. Many of the most exquisite blouses are bewildering combinations of lace, lantate and embroidery, and some show no linen whatever, but are of English eyelet and lace. In all cases they show a tendency to cling rather closely to the figure without being in the least degree fitted to it, and the yokes, always a marked detail, are of lustrous shapes. Much the same designs are seen in the taffetas, liberty satin and China silk blouses, save that heavy laces are always used in lieu of embroideries.

Empire Blouse Effects.

Short-waisted effects and raised girdles have brought about a novelty in separate blouses which is only good with the skirts having attached deep belts, so that they may appear to fall in an unbroken line from almost below the arms to the hem. A bodice of net designed to accompany a long, sheath skirt of pronounced Directorate type is shirred on to a round yoke of heavily applied net. This is trimmed with a broad band of all-over lace crossing the shoulders in upper fashion and so curving at the center of front and back that it seems to overlap the top of the skirt. Narrow bands of all-over lace crossing the jumper at back and front and passing under the arms form a wide, arm-size effect for the sleeves, which are small, shirred monaquetaes set almost plainly into the real arm size.

Broad Crash Belts.

No minor detail of the toilette so interferes with and oftentimes completely destroys the original idea of the designer of a blouse as does the character of the belt worn with it. Needless to state that with any sort of dressy waist a stiff belt is absolutely out of place. While a draped or crash broad belt is apt to be trying to some figures, it yet may be so cleverly made as to be exceedingly becoming and lend slenderness rather than bulk at the waistline. If possible such a girdle should be of the same color, if not material, as the blouse, and so shaped as to be short over the hips and pointed at the back.

Feminine Comforts in Hospitals.

When the wealthy woman of today goes to a private hospital she takes with her all the comforts of a home and more than are dreamed of in the average domestic circle. With her is her maid; many times "buttons" also is in attendance. A private cellaret with which to regale her friends during convalescence has more than often been an incidental, while as for flowers and other accessories, there are any amount of them.

Even the most popular private hospital affected by society women is but meager in its furnishings. The tenets of hygiene would be violated were there hangings and decorations. Therefore, a room, for which the charge is $125 a week, including board and the latest attendance, for only 10 days, by women whose houses are the perfection of luxury.

To be surrounded by less pleasing environment when one is convalescing than when one is quite well is patently impolitic, and, therefore, when arrangements are made for occupying the room the housekeeper of any private hospital has become quite accustomed to being told that once a maid will be sent in advance to look after the placing of a few things which she will bring.

Precisely what these things are and what the daily life of the patient may be after the operation depends entirely upon different individuals. One woman, whose name is synonymous with millions, engaged out only a large double room, a single one connecting. In the latter the bed was taken down and by her orders all the furniture was removed from the large room. From "home" she brought a complete outfit to replace it. She had her own bed, dressing table, chairs, lounge, table, rugs, draperies, lamps and other decorations. Pictures were hung. Her maid, who arrived with her and stayed the entire time, brought all the accessories of an elaborate toilet and Madame was arranged each day by most perfect art to look her best. In the small room soft draperies were put up at the windows and the place was converted into a luxurious reception room, conspicuous in which was a beautifully appointed tea table.

In charge of this room was "Buttons," as she was called, as soon as she was installed and the page's duty was not only to open doors to receive the cards of Madame's many callers, but also, after she began to mend, to take the callers on the table were never empty and that cold siphons were always at hand and cakes and biscuits never lacking.

Why should we forego pleasure for the sake of convention? What is convention after all but an inconvenient obstacle to getting the best out of life.

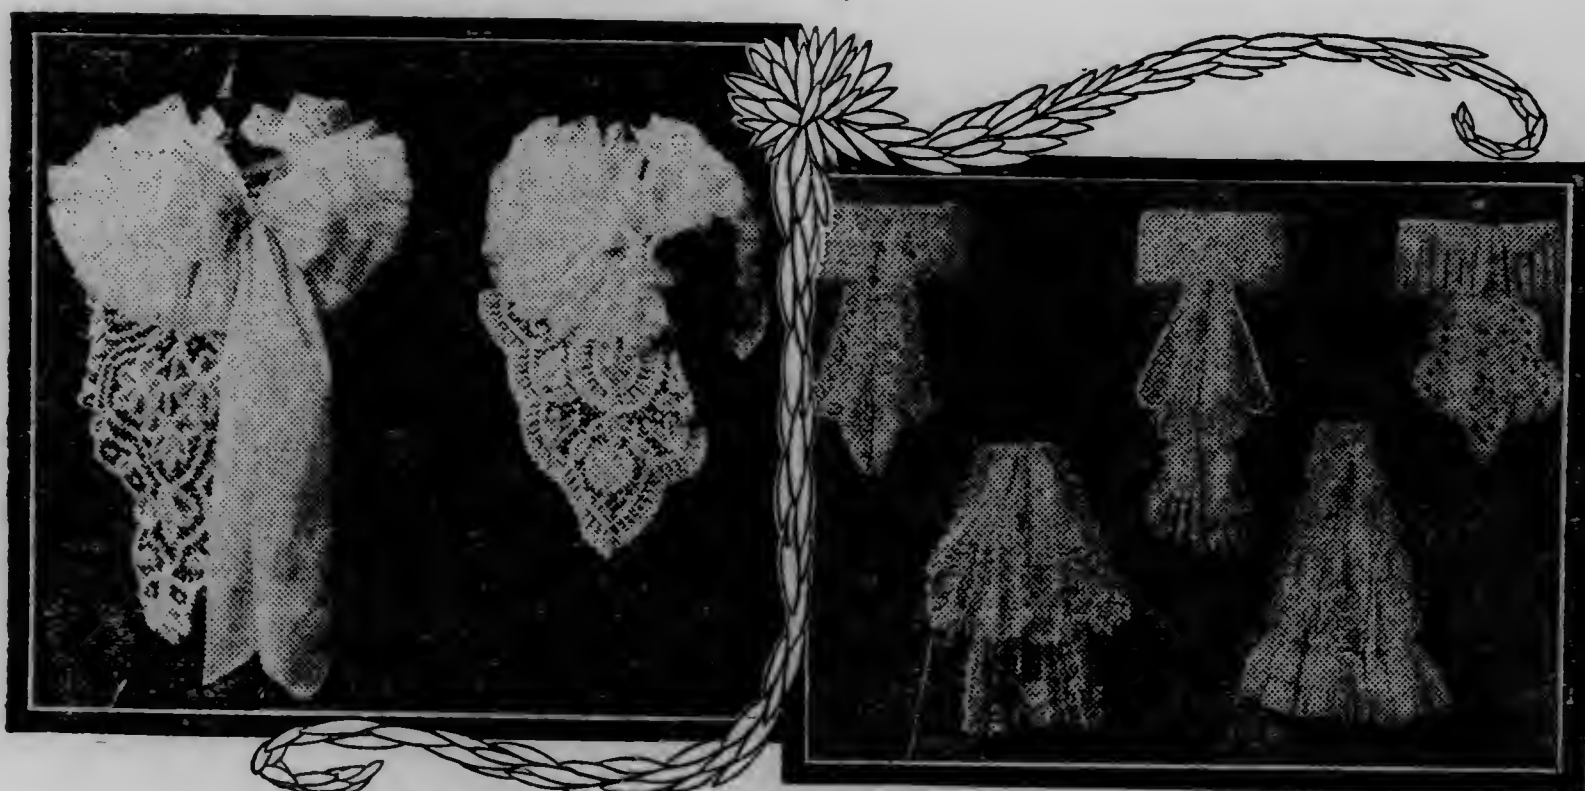

Up-to-date Neck Fixings of the Smart Autumn Outfit.

The amount of money that is expended every week upon neckwear and kindred small frivolities by the girl who takes to keep sartorially abreast of the times would make her great grandmother hold up her hands in amazement at the extravagance of the present decade and the average young man solemnly forewear matrimony. Yet it is these identical small and apparently inexpensive accessories that give to the costume of any class the smartness and chic, and therefore they are deserving of close attention from women of all ages who wish to look their best at all times.

Every milliner who is up-to-date is careful to impress upon her customers when buying a hat the necessity of having the neck dressed becomingly, and one and all agree upon them the importance of the neck ruche, which seems to balance the wide-spreading brims of the Directorate shapes and to form a setting, as it were, for the close-fitting models. In fact, it seems as though some of the extremists amongst ultra fashionable dressers are wearing hats and neck ruffles which come not far from merging the one into the other without regard for the face that is supposed to be the chief reason for their existence. Yet as a matter of history, there has never been anything quite so becoming to all types of faces as is the quilling of tulle about the throat, and judging from the rapidity with which it has grown, it may shortly be expected to assume the proportions of those worn by the famous English queen for which this attractive accessory is named. Nevertheless, these exaggerations are not nearly so pretty as are those which simply afford a soft frame for the features and incidentally conceal any throat deficiencies. Among the newest of these are the triple-furled tulle ruffles and the double white crepe frillings.

A novel fancy of the hour is the use of high stocks composed of many folds of ribbon drawn tightly about the throat and supported by collar bonings. These are finished at top and bottom with a deep frill of tulle and the ribbon is tied at back, side or front in a power-looking little bow. Another neck dressing in of a wide, soft ribbon dividing several upstanding pleated frills of lace or tulle from several deepening matching frills and tying in a large bow at the back. An immensely smart is a third stock of finely pleated Brussels lace, banded a quarter of an inch from top and bottom with fine gold braid and tied in front with a stiff little bow of gold ribbon. Or, somewhat the same character is a ruching of quilted black satin sash ribbon, lined with natter blue and divided in the center with a band of black martini, one end finished with miliitary rosette and two half-yard lengths of black satin ribbon.

High turnover collars of embroidered linen or lace are worn with tailored costumes of mohair, pongee and light-weight serge. With them are seen the daintiest of fluffy bows and frills and every imaginable sort of jabot, rabat and frill that the brain of womanhood can invent. In fact, the passion for jabot effects has taken such possession of womanhood that they are made of every imaginable material. Although many of them are decked with fine lace, the latest cry is for those finished with the finest of hand hemstitching or frilling. One of these models in the sheerest of batiste, has a double-pleated neck band and a jabot end scheme in the form of five batiste ruffles graduated in width as well as in depth. The four lower ruffles are attached to one end of the neck band and the smallest and top ruffle to the other end. The latter is slipped through a loose band of batiste just above the quartet of ruffles and thus the jabot is secured in place.

Bows to match many of the standing and Elton collar-and-cuff sets which are developed in the sheerest of embroidered linen, with lace insets are made of finely plaited white lawn or mull, some of them with colored or embroidered borders. There are also bows and cravats of lace, silk or velvet to hide the joining line of stock and blouse. One accessory of this type is a narrow silk cravat which is twisted carefully about the throat, knotted in front and allowed to fall in two five-inch ends which are finished with a little frill of lace that is shirred up into tassel form.

Among the stocks that are most easily made by the amateur are those of all-over heavy lace, shaped high at the sides and back, but slightly dipping in front. The tops are finished with a half-inch frill of fine tulle, thickly plaited and at the bottom edge there is a similar one but of twice the width of that at the top. This stock fastens at the back with a triple set of jeweled pins. Another on the same order is made of joined bands of lace or fine muslin embroidery and has a matching ruche at the top while the bottom edge is concealed under the band of a long tie of muslin and lace which has first a pleated, lace-edged batiste bow over which is interwoven a white satin ribbon which, having formed the band knot, extends into a twisted four-inch loop, and this in turn supports a double frill jabot of batiste edged with lace. To launder this would necessitate the placing of the entire bow. Of the same order, but much more elaborate, is a sort of pointed chemise made of plaited lace, finished at the top with a narrow lace frill and closing at the back with long loops and ends of black velvet ribbon.

THE VERY NICEST CHILDREN

lightened when she saw the object—so large and menacing in her eyes—moving. And when the boy stood up to his full height she was amazed to see how thin and feeble he was.

"Now, I say, Madam Squirrel, like all wild creatures, knew enough about self-preservation to run into her house and to whisper that she was not to be disturbed," said the monster that was at their very roots.

"For the love of life," whispered Madam Squirrel to Winkie and Blinbie, "don't dare to peep one eye out of this house till I assure you it is safe to do so." "I am not peeping," said Winkie. "I am not peep." So saying the good mother crept to the outer entrance of her fine, cozy little house, and the monster that was the monster had been seen by her, stretching his long legs and making a dash for it. He had disappeared.

Of course, Madam Squirrel did not feel quite sure that he had gone altogether. But she was not a coward. She would lean to her tree. "Now, my dears, I shall go and warn our neighbors, for I am sure that the monster of the old mill is in the woods in our very midst."

Then Madam Squirrel went out to tell her neighbors about the monster and the appearance of the giant, as she thought the boy giant. But, very soon, she was surprised to find that the little feet undangled in a queer net—something she had not seen stretched on the ground—and dozen of farmers' sons who would be there, and who would bring "dead loads of fun with them."

Pretty soon Teddy's mother fell into a restless sleep and he crept softly away. He went out under a big shade tree and stretched himself on the grass there, still meditating sorrowfully over his disappointment.

"He lay on his back and he prospered to him," said the old farmer, "but what your pat goes to the fair without your parents' consent? You are a big boy, and should be old enough to take care of yourself. Why not let the farmers go down to the fair and get their own 'own'?" It was the wicked voice of the temptor who will always whisper in the ear of a boy or girl who wishes him to do so.

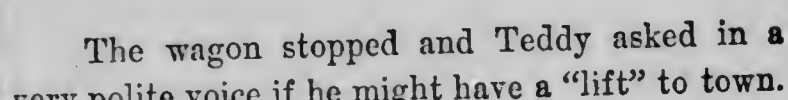

"No," said the boy, "I will not go. I will run away or something to induce him to run away. So he gladly listened to the temptor's voice, and turned the wicked advice over in his mind.

"I will run away," he said, "and stay for the fair. I'll be gone three days. One day I'll be going, one day there at the fair and one day returning home."

He ran softly into the house, peeping cautiously into his mother's room, to find her still asleep. Then he went up stairs, changed his every-day clothes for a suit of Sunday clothes and shoes. Then he took some pennies and two nickels from his iron bank that stood on the mantle in the sitting-room, and went out at the back door, and slipped into the barn.

"How fearful that stretched north of the house, and did not emerge again till he was fully a quarter of a mile from home," he remarked boldly to the road and pursued his way.

And no one had seen Teddy leave his home that day, and he had done all work in the garden getting vegetables for dinner and Teddy's father was in a distant field.

great monster should come along and trap you in some way and carry you off to a prison? You wouldn't like it very much, I'm sure.

"Well, I'm a boy, and a squirrel is an animal. There's a difference," the boy replied. "Everybody catches squirrels, rabbits, and other wild things," he declared with spirit. "And what's the harm in that? I can catch mice and not come bothering me here."

The little girl sat down on a fallen tree trunk and said to her brother, "Harry, I don't stop to think that animals suffer when robbed of their freedom just as much as people do. If we'd feel pretty unhappy. You know how much you love the big out-of-doors, and enjoy your liberty. If the creatures—especially those born wild—love freedom. And who can tell—that dear little frightened squirrel that I saw crawling up and getting out of the net, may be a mother squirrel, and in taking her into captivity we may be robbing some of her protection. Now, dear, I'm going back to the camp and leave you to think over what I've said and what you have caught in the net."

Mamma was preparing luncheon when I came in search of you. Papa and uncle had returned from the cliff, and said there are some awfully interesting mineral specimens to be picked up there. After lunch we will go down to the beach and around there. Mamma will remain at the camp and rest. She's so tired after the long journey.

"My, but it's glorious to be here in the great wild woods, isn't it?" And camping for a week with all these beauties and freedom. Then Harry's sister left him, running off through the woods toward the camp, where they were rusticating for a few days.

After she had gone Harry sat watching the frightened little captive in the net. And as he recalled all that had happened, he was filled with a look of pity for the poor entrapped squirrel came over his face, and he rose and went to the tree where he had tied the net's strings. Loosening them, he gave Madam Squirrel her liberty. Then he came back to the house, his mood whistling with a clear conscience.

"After all, it's a good thing that I listened to girls once and awhile," he mused, "very strong, nor as jolly as boys, but they're a long sight better at heart, than most of the fellows I know." And then the little squirrel might be a mother. Anyway, mother, father, aunt or uncle, I reckon she is glad to get out of the net. I don't want to be cruel to the smallest creature. But I'm sometimes blamed for it."

And as Harry wandered away from the place where the squirrels had lived unhurt for so long, Madam Squirrel could relate to Winkie and Blinkie her terrible experience, and to warn her neighbors against the treacherous net which she had found stretched secretly in the grass and leaves, and which would catch the unsuspecting feet of a mouse, or a squirrel. And Harry now said Madam Squirrel to herself, "And if that monster comes about here again I think we'll have to move farther than this place, for he would stay away—he and his kind—and leave us this little place to ourselves. We ask no little, and can be no more than a nuisance."

And Madam Squirrel got her wish, for never again did she see the two-legged monster prowling about in the neighborhood. And the squirrels lived on and on in peace and contentment. A little girl had saved them.

In parts of Brazil the vampire bat is a deadly menace to live stock. An owner of a large Brazilian possession in speaking of this pest said: "I have often had my mules and cattle killed and such." They abound from Paraguay to the Isthmus of Darien; and the reports of early travelers and the aggressive language of poets, so long disseminated, have made the public believe the truth that the world has believed. Morning after morning I have seen my beasts of burden, once strong, go staggering from loss of blood drawn from them during the night. I have seen the blood flowing from the almost every instance they have taken the life fluid from between the shoulders, and when they had finished their murderous work the stream had continued to flow some time.

IRISH HUMOR.

An Irishman, seeing a very heavily-laden vessel that stood scarcely above the water's edge, exclaimed: "Upon me soul, if that boat is not to sink, the blundering boat wot was he drowned!"

Another Irishman—a soldier—just returning from active service, saw a bullet hole through the top. "Look at that hole, will ye?" he asked. "If me hat had been two inches higher, the crown 'ud have been killed outright."

An Irishman saw the boats running on the canal between the two towns, and, as they were very much to go to the latter place, he went to a boatman and asked if he might work his passage there. "Surely," he replied. "If ye want to go, ye must take the horse." "Put started, and led the horse away." "Sure, Pat, you may lead the horse," he replied. "I have no horse," he replied. "Ye must take the horse to his destination, declared somewhat impatiently. "Ye are wrong, an' might as well have walked."

The big old clock stands in the hall,
And tells the girls and boys
When it is time to stop their play
And put away their toys.

It tells them in the morning, too,
When it is time to rise;
And with its quiet little hands
Shows them how fast time flies.

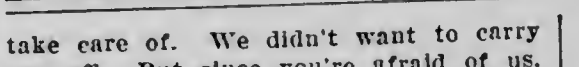

"Get up, get up!" it seems to say,
"Or you'll be late!" it says,
At last, it chimes, my boy or girl
Means that you'll be a fool!"

And so "tick, tick!" its hands go round
It works both night and day;
While people have some time to rest,
It has no sleep nor pause.

But vigilantly stands awake
To keep a watchful eye,
And with its busy little hands
Counts the minutes that fly by. M. W.

"BUILD NOW" CRY IS BEING HEEDED IN DULUTH

Citizens Taking Advantage of Cheap Labor and Material and Many New Dwellings Are Going Up—Several Big Deals in the Air.

Though the actual transfers for the week would not indicate that anything approaching a boom exists in real estate circles, there is an unmistakable note of optimism in the talk of real estate men in general. Several big deals are in the air and will settle down to the transfer point soon. East end residence property, which is much sought-after, and brings big prices, is said to be involved in several of them, and the considerations in some of the deals will give renewed assurance that the confidence in the future of Duluth is strengthening constantly.

"Build homes and do it now" is the slogan of the real estate men this fall and they are urging it upon prospective home builders with arguments to back them up. They point to the fact that labor and material will never be cheaper in Duluth. People who, last year, postponed building on account of the unsettled financial condition of the country, are this year hastening to do so, and thanking the fates for the delay which saved them money.

Bids were received last fall for seven brick residences for the Massachusetts Real Estate company, but the construction was postponed. This year new bids were secured and the buildings will be erected at a saving of $3,000 on the contract price, which is about $26,000. The same holds true in other cases. Companies, which make a practice of building houses and selling them on small cash payments and easy terms, are getting a few houses ahead of the demand. They figure that next summer everything will be higher, the country will be booming and the cost of labor and material will boom also, so that two or three houses, which may not be sold immediately will become white elephants.

Architect Frank L. Young this week let the contract to William Pasquet for the erection of seven brick dwellings for the Massachusetts Real Estate company, on the east side of Eighth avenue east, beginning at the corner of Fourth street and extending north. The contract price is about $24,000. The buildings will be of two stories each, six and seven rooms, and will contain modern improvements. The plans were prepared last year, but were let this year at a saving of $3,000, or approximately 14 per cent.

Out at Lakeside and Lester Park, municipal improvements and those being made by the Lakeside Land company are opening up a new territory in that thriving suburban district. Fifty-fourth avenue east is being graded by the city, so as to join Superior and Oneida streets. The improvement will be continued by the Lakeside Land company, which will open and grade Fifty-fourth avenue, from Oneida to the north boundary of their property. The streets will then be opened, such sewer and water connections as are possible will be made and the company will extend the improved district north as rapidly as possible. A petition is now being circulated for the placing of sewers in East Superior street, just east of Lester river, and several new homes are in contemplation in that vicinity.

The Lakeside Land company has several homes under construction for people at Lakeside. The latter price is $3,000 to $4,500 and the latter price is the most popular. Ground was broken yesterday for a new residence for F. Bogan at the corner of Roberts and Superior streets. It will cost $4,200.

The announcement this week that the plans had been received and contract will be let soon for a three-story building for the Duluth Commercial club at the southwest corner of Fourth avenue west and First street is another boom for the West First street business property.

The "Elks" home, D. R. Black and Christie buildings are under construction. The Commercial club building will go up within a year, and the lot on the other side, just west of the Barrett & Zimmerman property is said to be under lease for a building for the Zenith Telephone company. The new Commercial club building will have three stories on the street and four on the avenue. The first floor and basement will be given over to business purposes and the two upper floors will contain the club rooms.

N. J. Upham & Co. announce the sale from E. W. Page to Dr. L. A. Suke of the lot at the northeast corner of Fourteenth avenue east and Second street. The lot is 50 by 100 feet, and Dr. Sukeforth will build a home. The consideration was $2,500.

Dr. C. A. Stewart has purchased the E. Van Bergen property at the corner of Twenty-fifth east and Second street and will erect a home. The property has a frontage of 100 feet on Second street and is unimproved. The consideration has not been made public.

C. L. Rakowsky & Co. announce the following transfers: Lot 267, block 113, Duluth proper, Second division, from C. S. Pierce to William and Mary Downey, $2,500; lot 15, block 12, Heim addition, from T. M. Brown to James Shies, $550; property at No. 214 West Fifth street from E. Van Valkenburg to J. Stewart, $2,500; property at 508-512 East Seventh street from William Brown to Hans Hanson and John Svenson, $2,500.

Inga N. Berger has sold to Richard Bertram the improved property at lot 9, block 104, Portland division, designated at 1115 East Fifth street for a consideration of $3,500.

Following were the transfers recorded during the past week.

Architect Frank L. Young this week let the contract to H. C. Brown for the erection of a home for George H. Schuenberg at the corner of Eighth avenue east and London road. The building will be of frame with seven rooms, and will be beautifully finished. The contract price is about $2,200.

Edward A. Maye has sold to Wayne A. Clark the improved property at the northwest corner of Twenty-first avenue east and Fifth street in the Highland park addition. The consideration was $5,500.

The 100-foot property at the south east corner of First street and Twenty-eighth avenue west has been sold by Emanuel Swanson to Sinar Handgrud for a consideration of $3,750.

The executors have sold to Clarence W. Scott the property described as the east one-half of lot 31, on the north side of East Fourth street between Fifth and Sixth avenues east for $1,500, an old frame house stands on the 25-foot lot.

A strong inquiry for local unimproved lots and for farm lands is noted by the Getty-Smith company. The company has had a number of inquiries from outside points for acreage suitable for truck farming and dairying.

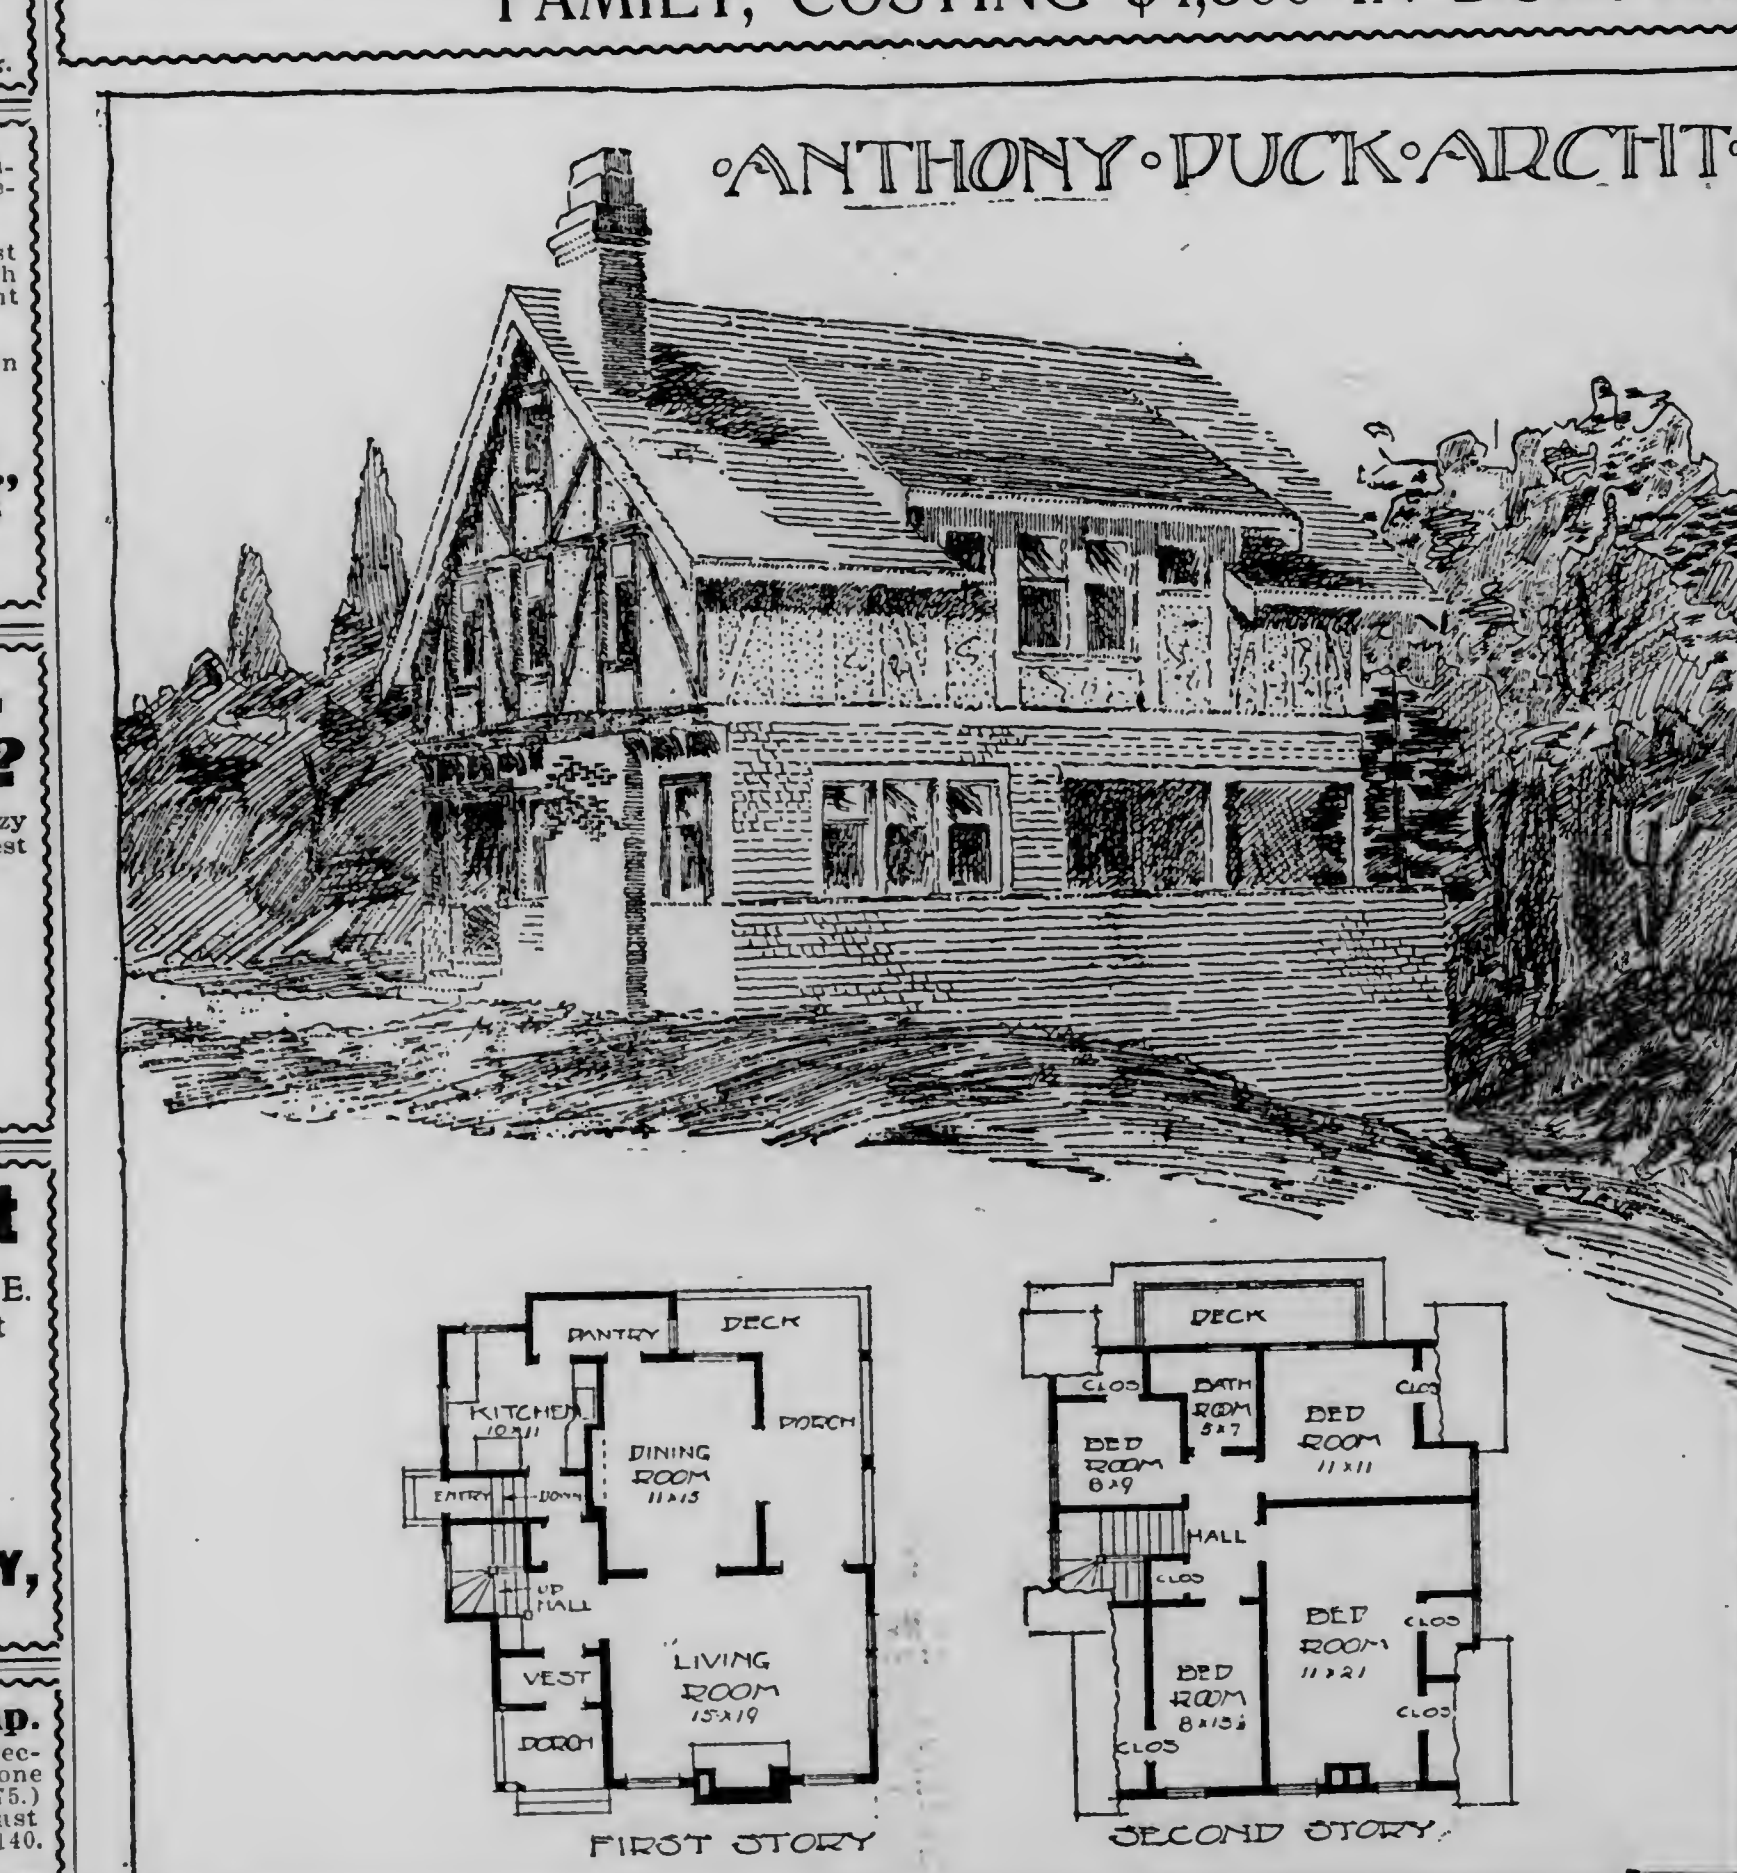

Some of the inquiries come from people, who reside, or who were induced to buy lands in the drought districts of the South. Drought conditions are unknown in Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin and the adaptability of the soil for vegetable growing and for forage crops for cattle increases the future in the way of truck farming and dairying.

The sale of the southeast corner of Twenty-third avenue east and Third street is understood to have been closed this week through the office of W. J. Holmes. The property has a frontage of 200 feet on Third street and the price is said to have been $1,000. The name of the purchaser is not made public.

William LaRue, a mining man, well known in Duluth, has purchased the 50-foot unimproved property on the north side of Second street, just west of the Duncan property between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets.

ATTRACTIVE HOUSE FOR SMALL FAMILY, COSTING $4,300 IN DULUTH.

First to be considered in designing a house is the location. The points of the compass determine the arrangement of the plan. The sun's rays are taken from the surroundings. The designer whose inspirations are taken from the surroundings, and a half house. The rooms in the second story are all full height, and the design has been taken of the sloping roof for closets. On the first floor will be found the desired rooms of sufficient size for a small family, conveniently arranged. Shingles are used for the exterior walls of the first story and stucco and half timber for the second story. The estimate cost to erect such a home in Duluth would be $4,300.
